Hearing Date In Kelly Case Set Oct. 21st

The date for the hearing of Edward H. Kelly's application for clemency "in all probability" will be Tuesday, Oct. 21, instead of Oct. 28 as originally scheduled, District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn announced today.

The district attorney was informed by telephone Friday afternoon by the assistant counsel to Governor Thomas E. Dewey that the hearing will be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York, unless the district attorney is informed otherwise. It was understood that the new date will stand unless Whitman Knapp, defense attorney, objects to it, which is not considered likely.

Kelly, 52, stands convicted of first degree murder in the shooting of Mrs. Eloise McHugh in this city on May 22, 1950. He is scheduled to die in the electric chair the end of this month unless Governor Dewey grants clemency as a result of Tuesday's hearing.

Held in Stabbing

Glen Cove, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—A 55-year-old hospital worker has been arrested in the fatal stabbing of the man for whom he has worked since 1927 at the North Country Hospital here. Alexander Pellizon, the hospital fireman, was charged with manslaughter in the death of William L. Mallory, 46, chief engineer at the hospital. Assistant District Attorney Edward Robinson quoted Pellizon as saying Mallory had bullied him for the past eight years and he "could not take it any longer."

Steel Stoppage

Lackawanna, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—At least 1,200 steelworkers remained off their jobs at the Bethlehem Steel Company plant here today and the company says the stoppage "threatens to halt all steelmaking" at the biggest plant in the state. The plant employs 17,000. Workers in four rolling mills walked out late yesterday in a dispute over rates of piecework pay.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—AFL grain elevator workers planned to return to work today after settlement of a two-day jurisdictional strike that threatened a complete tie-up of Buffalo's flour milling industry, largest in world.

State Office Has Tangle Over Rubbing Out Corporations

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 18 (AP)—The secretary of state's office has a problem: What prominent corporations—if any—were dissolved by a proclamation intended to rub out old corporate names.

The order issued Wednesday by Secretary of State Thomas J. Curran listed 54,908 membership corporations that he said failed to file "existence reports" before June 15, as required by a 1950 law. The list included such organizations as the American Salvation Army and the American Legion, Inc.

Yesterday, however, a spokesman for the State Department's Corporation Division said that some organizations had been listed erroneously as having lost their charters. These included the Salvation Army, the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Catholic Char-

List Reflects Bitter Period in Last Part of 1950 When American Troops Formed Bulk of the 8th Army in Thick of Fighting

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—The United States is estimated to have borne about 35 per cent of the battle casualty load in Korea while supplying nearly half of the United Nations combat manpower engaged in the Far Eastern conflict.

South Korea has suffered the heaviest losses—an estimated 61½ per cent. The other 15 UN nations have borne the remaining 23½ per cent.

No precise comparison between American and other United Nations figures of killed, wounded and missing can be made for a given date.

The United States is the only member of the allied fighting team that announces casualty figures regularly.

Last Week's List 121,154
The American casualty total last week stood at 121,154. The last tabulation made from United Nations and foreign sources, on Aug. 30, placed the total for all other UN forces at 221,876, of which all but 10,899 were South Koreans.

The war-torn Republic of Korea is known to be unsure of the exact extent of its manpower loss. In the early, desperate months of the war the South Korean army lost and picked up men with more rapidity than its harried administration could keep track of.

Estimates by highly informed sources of current battle casualties for all allied forces show that approximately 300,000 Americans engaged in ground, sea and air phases on the conflict have accounted for some 35 per cent of all UN battle casualties.

Comparisons
The forces of South Korea with an estimated 450,000 to 550,000 men have borne about 61½ per cent, and the other allies together with about 40,000 men, the remaining 3½ per cent total reflects the bitter period in the last part of 1950 when American troops formed the bulk of the 8th Army and were continuously in the thick of the heaviest fighting. The reorganized army of South Korea has since taken over a much greater share of the battle line, and in recent weeks borne the assaults.

The 8th Army now counts 18 divisions and additional smaller tactical units. Ten of these divisions are South Koreans.

The U. S. has six army divisions and the first marine division in the zone of combat.

British Third
The British Commonwealth is the third heaviest manpower contributor with some 25,000 soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen.

The bulk of the Commonwealth strength is in the British Commonwealth Division, made up of United Kingdom, Canadian, Australian and New Zealand troops. South Africa supplies no ground soldiers but has an air squadron in action.

Turkey has the next largest fighting unit in Korea, a brigade of about 5,000. Colombia, with a battalion of some 1,000 strong, is the only western hemisphere nation south of the Rio Grande that has made the UN fighting team.

Battalion-sized units from the Philippines and Thailand are Asia's only combat representation. India maintains a field medical unit that is attached to the British Commonwealth Division.

Continental Europe is represented by France, Belgium, Greece, and The Netherlands, each with infantry battalions, and Luxembourg with a smaller ground unit. And from the continent of Africa there is a battalion of Emperor Haile Selassie's Ethiopian Royal Guards.

Chinese Lose Estimated 3,750 Soldiers During Fight for Triangle

Seoul, Oct. 18 (AP)—American troops broke the last Chinese Communist foothold on Triangle Hill today in vicious, see-saw fighting on the central Korean front.

Two miles to the east, south Korean soldiers fought off three Chinese attacks on Sniper Ridge.

All day Saturday, Allied artillery hurled thunderous barrages at Red positions north of Triangle and Sniper. Allied warplanes roared down on Papa-San mountain, dumping high explosives and flaming gasoline on the massive hill which the Reds use as a massing point for their assaults on Triangle and Sniper.

The Americans and ROKs five days ago launched the biggest Allied attack of 1952 with the goal of winning and holding these two hill masses north of Kumhwa. In the air war, U. S. Sabre jet pilots reported shooting down two Communist jets in northwest Korea's MIG alley. The kills were credited to Lt. Paul G. Kautu, Portland, Ore., and Second Lt. Kirk Vandevanter, Newtown, Pa.

Month's Total Reaches 20
The kills brought the Fifth Air Force's October jet score to 20 MIGs shot down, one probably destroyed and 22 damaged.

Eight B-29 Superforts ran into heavy flak and rocket barrages and fought off at least seven Red night fighters early Saturday in a bombing attack on a Red army headquarters at Tosong, in northwest Korea. All eight planes returned to their base on Okinawa.

AP Correspondent Milo Farneti reported that U. S. Seventh Division troops stormed to the top of Pike's Peak, at the northwest corner of Triangle Hill, just after daybreak.

Intense Red mortar and artillery fire forced them to fall back several hours later, Farneti said, but the Americans counterattacked and recaptured the crest at 10:32 a. m.

Pike's Peak was the last Red stronghold on Triangle Hill. However, a few Chinese suicide troops still were holding out in scattered caves and dug-out positions.

ROKs Halt Reds
The bloody central front action added hundreds of Communist casualties totalling 18,000 for the past nine days.

AP Correspondent John Fujii watched South Koreans dug in on Sniper Ridge stand off three Chinese attacks, each mounted by 1,000 to 1,500 infantrymen. Fujii reported the Reds suffered 110 counted dead, 75 additional estimated wounded. This was in addition to 460 Chinese counted killed, 399 more estimated killed and 216 estimated wounded the first four

Eisenhower Says He Will Make Own Decisions; Truman Blasts On Stand About War in Korea

Accuses GOP Candidate of Playing Politics With Foreign Policy to Get Votes

Predicts Victory

Says Stevenson Talks Sensibly on Issues of Campaign

Aboard Truman Train in New England, Oct. 18 (AP)—President Truman said today that Dwight D. Eisenhower has sunk so low as to hold out "a false hope to the mothers of American, in an effort to pick up a few votes."

Truman called that "a cruel and deceitful" action and "a contemptible thing to do."

"I honestly believed that he would refuse to play politics with our foreign policy—especially that part of it which involves the sacrifice of our American boys are making in Korea," the President asserted. "But I was wrong about that."

He delivered his newest blast at the GOP presidential nominee in an address prepared for delivery at Providence, R. I., in the course of a day of campaigning by train and automobile in New England.

Truman predicted, as he did at Providence four years ago, a Democratic victory.

Says Adlai Talks Sense
"As usual," he said, "you Democrats of Rhode Island are going to be right up there at the head of the procession."

He said the Democratic nominee, Adlai Stevenson, is talking sensibly about the issues while Eisenhower, "makes no secret of the fact that he is trying to play on our emotions."

"And he has sunk pretty low in that emotion campaign, as I'm going to prove to you," Truman declared.

Meantime, the President worked to complete one of the heaviest campaign schedules he has ever undertaken as his rousing New England reception neared a close.

Hiss Senators
He stirred storms of applause in Boston's Symphony Hall last night with a charge that Eisenhower, by his support of GOP senators McCarthy of Wisconsin and Jenner of Indiana, has endorsed a "reign of terror by slander."

The audience hissed and booed the names of the two senators whom he called "moral pigmies."

He told Rhode Islanders in today's prepared address:

"I was bitterly disappointed a few days ago when the Republican candidate for president told the people of the United States a cruel and deceitful thing."

"You remember what he said. He said we ought to pull our soldiers out of the fighting in Korea and let the South Korean army in 1947."

"So let me again refresh Gov. Stevenson's memory," Nixon said, adding:

"On November 12, 1946, Alger Hiss, as director of the office of special affairs of the State Department, addressed the Northwestern University School of Law as part of the Julius and Ethel Rosenberg lectures. His subject: 'The General Assembly.' His host as director of this lecture series: Mr. Adlai E. Stevenson of the faculty of Northwestern University."

Nixon said that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP presidential nominee, is better qualified than Stevenson to deal with the "ruthless masters of the Kremlin."

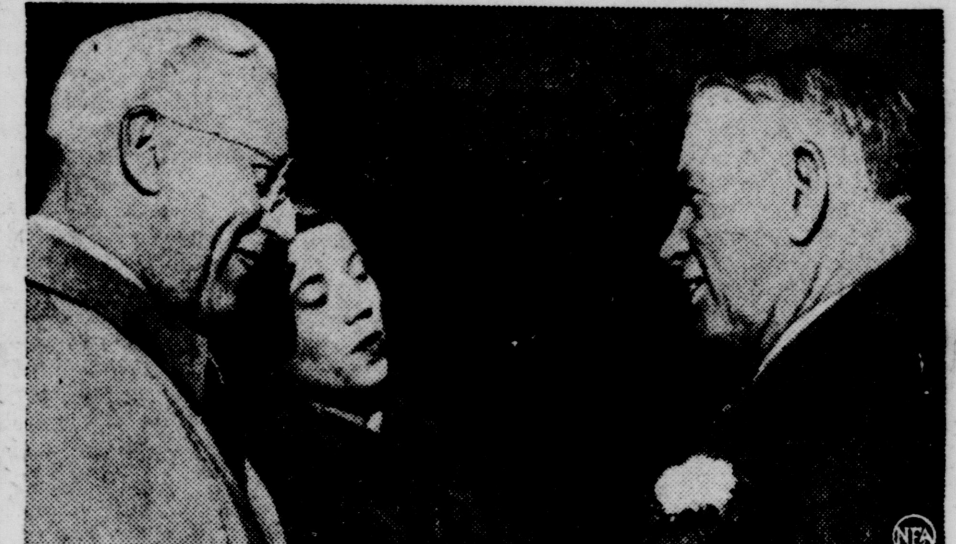

Before speaking in Winnetka, Nixon made a televised address at a Young Republican gathering in Chicago and then rode in a motorcade through flare lit streets of suburban Evanston. At Winnetka, the crowd overflowed the 3,200 seat high school gymnasium.

In all his Illinois appearances in Stevenson's home state, the GOP candidate drew the loudest applause when he ripped into Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Sen. Nixon Moves To New York State
Stevenson and Acheson Hit Hard During Tour of Illinois

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP)—Senator Richard M. Nixon moved his campaign into New York state today after an Illinois tour during which he rapped Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson as a "man who was duped" by convicted perjurer Alger Hiss.

The Republican vice presidential nominee drummed hard on communism and foreign policy issues in whistle stop daytime appearances at Freeport, Rockford and Kankakee, in northern Illinois, and then made a strong attack on Stevenson in suburban Winnetka last night.

He said that while he did not challenge Stevenson's loyalty, he did question whether the Democratic presidential nominee—in view of his character deposition for Hiss—could be "trusted to lead our crusade against communism."

Hiss, a former State Department official, was sent to prison for lying about a leak of government secrets.

Cites Mistake on Hiss
"Stevenson was wrong about Hiss," declared the California senator. "He made a mistake in judgment. And we can't afford those mistakes."

Nixon said Stevenson and Hiss attended the General Assembly of the UN in London in the first three months of 1946.

"In March, 1946," Nixon continued, "Mr. Stevenson returned to the United States. In his deposition defending Alger Hiss's reputation, he said: 'I do not believe I met Mr. Hiss again until the UN General Assembly in New York in 1947.'"

"So let me again refresh Gov. Stevenson's memory," Nixon said, adding:

"On November 12, 1946, Alger Hiss, as director of the office of special affairs of the State Department, addressed the Northwestern University School of Law as part of the Julius and Ethel Rosenberg lectures. Residence Saved in Mt. Pleasant; Factory Is Total Loss

The Mt. Pleasant Cutlery Company factory was totally destroyed by a fire which was discovered about 9:15 p. m. Friday.

Chief Mervale C. Jones of the Phenicia Fire Department said this morning that loss might reach $25,000 or $30,000 because of the type and condition of the machinery in the building. No accurate inventory of loss had been made as yet, however, he stressed.

Water Too Far Away
Firemen were unable to save the one-story frame structure because the flames had almost entirely enveloped the building when firemen arrived, and also because of the distance to the nearest available water supply.

Firemen succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading to the owner's dwelling which stands less than 20 feet from the factory building.

William Hartkopf, owner and operator of the factory, was not at home at the time and the fire apparently gained considerable headway before it was reported by a neighbor, it was reported.

Think Stove Cause
State Police Corporal Ray Dunn of Phenicia reported the fire apparently started from a defective oil stove.

The building, located back of the Mt. Pleasant railroad station, was used in the manufacture of manicure scissors and similar implements. The company, although small and operated mostly as a family firm, had considerable expensive equipment used in the manufacturing process.

Byrd Raps Trumanism, Won't Endorse Democrats

Winchester, Va., Oct. 18 (AP)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd, a southern Democrat long at odds with the Truman administration, says he can not endorse the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket or the Democratic platform.

"Endorsement means to recommend, and this I can not do," Byrd said in a statewide radio broadcast. He concluded with: "Always I have been a Virginia Democrat; always I will remain one."

Byrd did not say who would get his vote in the presidential election Nov. 4. It was not his duty, he added, "to urge the people to vote for any candidate."

The speech did not mention Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate for president. But it attacked "Trumanism" and said Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, the Democratic presidential nominee, has shown

Crowds in Jersey Pep Up General as They Cheer Speeches

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower says his decisions "have been and will be mine alone" and that he still is a "No Deal" man.

In a speech last night at Newark, N. J., the GOP presidential nominee also gave a pat on the back to Gen. George C. Marshall.

In his "No Deal" statement, Eisenhower appeared obviously to be replying to Democratic accusations that he had come under the thumb of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin.

In doing so, he replied also to President Truman's charge at Hartford, Conn., on Thursday that he was "being misled" by "Marshall, Eisenhower's mentor and wartime chief."

Prepares More Talks
Technically, Eisenhower was resting today but actually he was preparing speeches and strategy for his first campaign swing into New England on Monday, hard on the heels of Truman. The general was due to spend today and tomorrow in New York, with no announced engagements.

His camp was cheered meanwhile by the pronouncement of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, that he could not support the Democratic national ticket headed by Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

An Eisenhower advisor said last week that Eisenhower's best chance of capturing a southern state lay in Virginia—provided Byrd did not come out for the Democratic national slate.

The Eisenhower forces were encouraged also by a turnout estimated by police at about 25,000 persons to greet him last night in Jersey City—a Democratic stronghold once ruled by "boss" Frank Hague.

Encouraged by Crowds
Eisenhower himself described the gathering as the largest he had seen in a lengthy tour across New Jersey from Camden.

The general's foes have painted him as having swung around to the views of Sen. Taft, whom they describe as an isolationist, and of Sen. McCarthy, who has linked Marshall's name to what he termed "a conspiracy of infamy" to make the U. S. an easy victim of the Kremlin.

Without mentioning the senators by name, Eisenhower responded this way in his Newark speech:

"I have listened to suggestions made to me by Republicans from all parts of the country."

"But let me make it quite clear as to my personal responsibility for my ultimate decisions. Those decisions have been and will be mine alone. . . ."

Lauds Marshall
He said he had given no encouragement to notions that an isolated or isolationist America could continue to live either in peace or in security. He added:

"I have abandoned no part of my belief in any of the men whom I consider great American patriots. In this group stands Gen. George C. Marshall."

Eisenhower said that at the very beginning of his campaign he pronounced himself a "No Deal Man" who would make no arrangement with the Democrats.

NATO Nations Now Accept U. S. Air Evacuation Plan in War

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—Medical chiefs of the NATO nations are working on a coordinated system of caring for the wounded, to fit into the general military defense plans for western Europe.

Maj. Gen. Harry G. Armstrong, air force surgeon general just returned from a trip during which he attended the first gathering of medical officers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries, said European officials showed "tremendous interest" in the air evacuation methods developed by the United States.

Some of the NATO members had been concerned over attempting to set up machinery for getting wounded out of the front lines and back to hospitals quickly by air because they believed it would impose impossible requirements for aircraft.

Explains Plan

Armstrong told reporters that he explained the methods used by the U. S. in Korea required virtually no additional aircraft, that the same planes sent to the war zone and front lines with supplies and troops are used to bring back wounded—a 100 per cent utilization of aircraft.

Until the recent meeting in Paris, Armstrong said, there had been no attempt to bring the medical officers of the mutual defense forces together to consider common methods and problems.

"It was thought it was time we got together to discuss various questions," the general said, "such as the methods of keeping records, of how you handle the other fellow's wounded, get them sorted out from your own people and back where they belong."

Language Problem

As an example, he mentioned the language and terminology problem, in which medical supplies may carry labels and instructions in any one of several languages.

Also tabbed for dissolution were predecessors of the present Salvation Army, New York Red Cross Chapter, American Legion and ASPCA, all of which had been replaced or absorbed.

As for the appearance of the American Labor party and the Liberal party on the list, party spokesmen pointed out that the

Sen. Nixon Moves To New York State Stevenson and Acheson Hit Hard During Tour of Illinois

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP)—Senator Richard M. Nixon moved his campaign into New York state today after an Illinois tour during which he rapped Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson as a "man who was duped" by convicted perjurer Alger Hiss.

The Republican vice presidential nominee drummed hard on communism and foreign policy issues in whistle stop daytime appearances at Freeport, Rockford and Kankakee, in northern Illinois, and then made a strong attack on Stevenson in suburban Winnetka last night.

He said that while he did not challenge Stevenson's loyalty, he did question whether the Democratic presidential nominee—in view of his character deposition for Hiss—could be "trusted to lead our crusade against communism."

Hiss, a former State Department official, was sent to prison for lying about a leak of government secrets.

Cites Mistake on Hiss

"Stevenson was wrong about Hiss," declared the California senator. "He made a mistake in judgment. And we can't afford those mistakes."

Nixon said Stevenson and Hiss attended the General Assembly of the UN in London in the first three months of 1946.

"In March, 1946," Nixon continued, "Mr. Stevenson returned to the United States. In his deposition defending Alger Hiss's reputation, he said: 'I do not believe I met Mr. Hiss again until the UN General Assembly in New York in 1947.'"

"So let me again refresh Gov. Stevenson's memory," Nixon said, adding:

"On November 12, 1946, Alger Hiss, as director of the office of special affairs of the State Department, addressed the Northwestern University School of Law as part of the Julius Rosenberg Foundation lectures. His subject: 'The General Assembly.' His host as director of this lecture series: Mr. Adlai E. Stevenson of the faculty of Northwestern University."

Nixon said that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the GOP presidential nominee, is better qualified than Stevenson to deal with the "ruthless masters of the Kremlin."

Before speaking in Winnetka, Nixon made a televised address at a Young Republican gathering in Chicago and then rode in a motorcade through flare lit streets of suburban Evanston. At Winnetka, the crowd overflowed the 3,200 seat high school gymnasium.

In all his Illinois appearances in Stevenson's home state, the GOP candidate drew the loudest applause when he ripped into Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

Urges Germans to Unite

Berlin, Oct. 18 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared today West Germans must drop their political differences and unite behind the European defense plan if they expect to unite their nation some day. He urged opposition Socialists to reconsider and support his government's platform.

London, Oct. 18 (AP)—Eighty-five-year-old Queen Mary was recovering today from a cold in the head. Her doctors, however, said she must remain indoors for a few more days.

Residence Saved in Mt. Pleasant; Factory Is Total Loss

The Mt. Pleasant Cutlery Company factory was totally destroyed by a fire which was discovered about 9:15 p. m. Friday.

Chief Mervale C. Jones of the Phenicia Fire Department said this morning that loss might reach $25,000 or $30,000 because of the type and condition of the machinery in the building. No accurate inventory of loss had been made as yet, however, he stressed.

Water Too Far Away

Firemen were unable to save the one-story frame structure because the flames had almost entirely enveloped the building when firemen arrived, and also because of the distance to the nearest available water supply.

Firemen succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading to the owner's dwelling which stands less than 20 feet from the factory building.

William Hartkopf, owner and operator of the factory, was not at home at the time and the fire apparently started from a defective oil stove.

The building, located back of the Mt. Pleasant railroad station, was used in the manufacture of manicure scissors and similar implements. The company, although small and operated mostly as a family firm, had considerable expensive equipment used in the manufacturing process.

Sees Republic Coming

Cairo, Oct. 18 (AP)—Egypt will shed her monarchy soon and become a republic, a reliable source said last night. He said plans are being made for the switch-over, but would not specify when it would take place.

Ship Runs Aground

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 18 (AP)—The 5,812-ton steamship Prince George ran aground in dense fog early today in a narrow passage about 130 miles northwest of here, but pulled free soon afterward and radioed she was in no danger.

Byrd Raps Trumanism, Won't Endorse Democrats

Winchester, Va., Oct. 18 (AP)—Sen. Harry F. Byrd, a southern Democrat long at odds with the Truman administration, says he can not endorse the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket or the Democratic platform.

"Endorsement means to recommend, and this I can not do," Byrd said in a statewide radio broadcast. He concluded with: "Always I have been a Virginia Democrat; always I will remain one."

Byrd did not say who would get his vote in the presidential election Nov. 4. It was not his duty, he added, "to urge the people to vote for any candidate."

The speech did not mention Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican candidate for president. But it attacked "Trumanism" and said Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois, the Democratic presidential nominee, has shown no sign of independent action. Byrd is a long-time critic of "New Deal" and "Fair Deal" policies and has strong backing in the south.

His announcement should boost the hopes of Republicans trying to swing to my personal responsibility on fundamental policy. Hence, he said, Stevenson can not reform the Democratic party or "change the trend from Trumanism."

Ike Makes It Certain He's Not Under Any Pressure From Taft or McCarthy

Praises Marshall

Crowds in Jersey Pep Up General as They Cheer Speeches

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower says his decisions "have been and will be mine alone" and that he still is a "No Deal" man.

In a speech last night at Newark, N. J., the GOP presidential nominee also gave a pat on the back to Gen. George C. Marshall.

In his "No Deal" statement, Eisenhower appeared obviously to be replying to Democratic accusations that he had come under the thumb of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin.

In doing so, he replied also to President Truman's charge at Hartford, Conn., on Thursday that he was not "sticking by" Marshall, Eisenhower's mentor and wartime chief.

Prepares More Talks

Technically, Eisenhower was resting today but actually he was preparing speeches and strategy for his first campaign swing into New England on Monday, hard on the heels of Truman. The general was due to spend today and tomorrow in New York, with no announced engagements.

His camp was cheered meanwhile by the pronouncement of Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, that he could not support the Democratic national ticket headed by Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

An Eisenhower advisor said last week that Eisenhower's best chance of capturing a southern state lay in Virginia—provided Byrd did not come out for the Democratic national slate.

The Eisenhower forces were encouraged also by a turnout estimated by police at about 25,000 persons to greet him last night in Jersey City—a Democratic stronghold once ruled by "boss" Frank Hague.

Encouraged by Crowds

Eisenhower himself described the gathering as the largest he had seen in a lengthy tour across New Jersey from Camden.

The general's foes have painted him as having swung around to the views of Sen. Taft, whom they describe as an isolationist, and of Sen. McCarthy, who has linked Marshall's name to what he termed "a conspiracy of infamy" to make the U. S. an easy victim of the Kremlin.

Without mentioning the senators by name, Eisenhower responded this way in his Newark speech:

"I have listened to suggestions made to me by Republicans from all parts of the country. . . . But let me make it quite clear as to my personal responsibility for my ultimate decisions. Those decisions have been and will be mine alone. . . ."

Lands Marshall

He said he had given no encouragement to notions that an isolated or isolationist America could continue to live either in peace or in security. He added:

"I have abandoned no part of my belief in any of the men whom I consider great American patriots. In this group stands Gen. George C. Marshall."

Eisenhower said that at the very beginning of his campaign he pronounced himself a "No Deal Man" who would make no ar-

CLYDE HERBERT SNELLTHE HAPPY MAN

We talk a lot about happiness—and always as though it really existed. Actually it doesn't, of course. There is no such thing as happiness any more than there is any such thing as a smile. There are only smiling faces and happy people.

Now one of the best ways to discover some of the fundamentals of happiness is to track down a happy man and study some of his secrets. If we were only wise enough to do that we would save ourselves the disappointment which results from following false trails.

One very common mistake we humans make is in thinking that happiness is to be found in possessions, riches—the accumulation of things. There is an old story about a mighty king who was stricken with a strange malady for which none of the physicians could find a remedy. Finally one of his soothsayers told him that if he would wear the shirt of a happy man he would recover. This inspired fresh hope in the king. He ordered the country searched for his happiest subject—but alas, when they found him, he was too poor to own a shirt.

Certainly one of the key secrets about happiness is in the wisdom which recognizes that it is a by-product of creative living. "Our happiest moments," says Dr. Elton Trueblood, "are not those in which we ask how to be happy, but rather those in which we lose ourselves in some creative task, which seems to us important, that we forget to take our own emotional pulse." "If you observe a really happy man," writes W. Bertram Wolfe, "you will find him building a boat, writing a symphony, educating a son, growing double dahlias or looking for dinosaur eggs in the Gobi desert. He will not be searching for happiness as if it were a collar button that had rolled under the radiator, striving for it as a goal in itself. He will have become aware that he is happy in the course of living life twenty-four crowded hours of each day."

It is mighty worth our noting that the happiest folks in the world are always the ones who are so busy trying to make others happy that they forget to worry about whether they can find happiness for themselves or not. All of us could, very profitably, do a lot of mental ruminating upon this sentence from one of O'Henry's stories: "Perhaps there is no happiness in life so perfect as the martyr's."

Sunday Service

The annual community-wide observance of Reformation Sunday, Oct. 26, will feature a union service of worship, at 7:30 p. m. in the Fair Street Reformed Church, under the auspices of the Kingston Ministerial Association.

The Association has announced that the guest preacher will be the Rev. Charles R. Ehrhardt, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Newark, N. J., and successor to the well-known preacher-politician, the Rev. Dr. Lester H. Cleo, who served the church with distinction for many years until 1950. The Rev. Mr. Ehrhardt is recognized as an evangelical preacher of persuasive power and influence. He is a graduate of Western Maryland College, and Princeton Theological Seminary. His active ministry has included three years as assistant pastor at Westminster Presbyterian Church, Scranton, Pa.; three years as navy chaplain with assignments in Washington, D. C. and the Pacific; and four years as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Hackensack, N. J., from which charge he went to his present pastorate in November, 1950. He has served as president of the Bergen County Council of Churches, and President of the Hackensack Pastor's Association.

Arranging for the Reformation Day Service is a committee of the Association, consisting of the Rev. William J. McVey, the Rev. Frank Lawrence, Gollick, the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, the Rev. Dr. Ralph M. Houston, and the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool. The choir of the host church will provide a musical program and four of the local ministers will participate in the service. It is hoped that members of the Protestant Churches of the city and vicinity will consider this Reformation Sunday program one of much common interest and significance for the promotion of unity and cooperation.

Rooms Six
Bedrooms Three Double Closets Seven
Cubage 29,800 ft.
Dimensions 61' x 33'

The abundance of windows and the breaks in the roof line add to the exterior appeal of "The Baldwinville." Another distinctive decorative feature of this modern home is the small front porchway which protects the front doorway.

Including the attached garage "The Baldwinville" has overall measurements of 61'x33' at least an 80-foot lot would be required. Cubage of the house is 29,800 feet.

Certain to appeal to the homeowner is the large amount of centrally located storage space in this comfortable ranch house. In addition to good sized closets in each bedroom there is a spacious coat closet in the entry hall; a handy broom closet in the kitchen; large linen closet, opening on the central hallway near the bedrooms and the bath and a good sized general purpose closet, also opening on the central hallway.

All three bedrooms enjoy the benefits of good lighting and ventilation. As a matter of fact, this home's many windows make it unusually bright and cheerful throughout. Although there is no dining room proper, the pleasant breakfast room can easily be used for all family meals. The living room is large enough to double as a dining room for more formal occasions and, since it is located so near to the all modern kitchen, serving meals in this dual purpose room presents no problem to the housewife.

Measuring 13' x 10', the kitchen is larger than in many new homes. Hence, your home laundry equipment can easily be installed in this room along with all the conventional pieces of modern kitchen equipment. The back door provides easy access to the back porch and yard.

Only the heating plant need be installed in the full cement basement; this should be placed under the living room.

Chemistry Helps
Provide Better
Building Material

Few laymen are aware of the major role which chemistry has assumed in providing the public with more and better building materials. So successful have been the efforts of science in this direction that many commonly used building items are seldom thought of as the products of chemical change induced by researchers.

Among these are such extensively used materials as lime, plaster, portland cement, gypsum board, insulating board, brick and terra cotta. Hardboard and plywood also are results of chemical achievements. One group of synthetics boasts many of the desirable properties of natural lumber and stone, yet possesses other valuable characteristics unique in the building materials field. This group, known as asbestos-cement products, is gaining widespread popularity for a variety of uses in construction of homes, farm buildings, industrial and commercial structures.

The products are produced in the form of flat sheets and corrugated sheets, siding shingles and roofing shingles. The flat and the corrugated sheets, employed both for exterior and interior construction uses, also are suited for a multitude of miscellaneous purposes. Asbestos-cement products are made by subjecting a combination of asbestos fibers and portland cement to tremendous hydraulic pressure. Strong and rigid, the products perform the structural functions of lumber in many of their applications. Because their component minerals are incombustible, however, the products are fireproof. Additionally, they are immune to rust, rot and decay. Their inorganic nature also renders them resistant to rodents.

Asphalt-Asbestos Fibers

A wood shingle roof that has too many leaks for individual patching can be made to last several years longer by coating it with a good roofing compound of asphalt and asbestos fibers. Nail down all loose shingles first and split, flatten and nail curled shingles. The compound successfully fills holes and cracks.

Long-Forgotten Attic
Is Put to Good Use

You're missing a wonderful bet if your attic is just the usual overhead junk heap.

In an article in Esquire, "Three Attics for Fun," architectural editor Jule R. von Sternberg offers three suggestions for converting the long-forgotten attics of America into attractive and functional living space.

His first idea is to turn the attic into a rooftop theatre where on a small stage, you can put on family productions or show home movies. Or, if you have several young boys in the family, turn the unused upper-story into a big, full-floor bed-and-game room. Cabinets, beds, desks, can be built in, leaving no more serious furnishing problem than a few chairs and some light fixtures.

Or, why not turn the attic into a penthouse club room, where the whole family can relax with a TV set, radio-phonograph, bar, or whatever else you care to include?

Included in the article are suggestions for making ungainly attics more livable. For instance, to lighten a wide but too low attic, raise the middle section of the roof on new side walls. Widen a too narrow attic with a strip doorway window extending full length of the new room.

Prevention of Open Seams Between Boards

Paint is only one means of assisting in the preservation of exposed wood parts on the house.

The prevention of open seams between boards and at mitered corners is even more important. Dry wood does not rot. Very seldom is a piece of exterior woodwork found which is rotted from the surface in. In general, deterioration progresses from hidden places — at first unseen, but gradually working toward the surface. In nine cases out of 10 such deterioration is caused by moisture — moisture which has entered through a tiny opening of seam.

Paint alone will not prevent this action. Open joints and mitered corners permit the entry of water which promotes fungus growth. No woodwork of any kind should be painted without carefully checking first all corners, seams, laps, and butt ends of boards. A quarter-pound of putty used at the right time is often more important than several gallons of paint.

Deterioration of woodwork is like the trickle which, gradually enlarging itself, can destroy a dyke. One drop of water may set the process in motion. Eliminate that drop, and the woodwork will stay sound generation after generation.

Nearly half of the coal produced in the United States in 1951 was mechanically cleaned.

Colonial Charm

A charming Early American dining room has walls painted a deep, dull blue, a beamed ceiling and random-width planks for the floor. A pine trestle-table is placed beneath a wide window which overlooks a garden. Pewter plates and tankards gleam on the shelves of a Welsh cupboard. Draperies are russet in tone. The russet hue is repeated in the hand-hooked rugs on the floor.

In addition to good sized closets in each bedroom there is a spacious coat closet in the entry hall, a handy broom closet in the kitchen, large linen closet, opening on the central hallway near the bedrooms and the bath and a good sized general purpose closet, also opening on the central hallway.

All three bedrooms enjoy the benefits of good lighting and ventilation. As a matter of fact, this home's many windows make it unusually bright and cheerful throughout.

Although there is no dining room proper, the pleasant breakfast room can easily be used for all family meals. The living room is large enough to double as a dining room for more formal occasions and, since it is located so near to the all modern kitchen, serving meals in this dual purpose room presents no problem to the housewife.

Measuring 13' x 10', the kitchen is larger than in many new homes. Hence, your home laundry equipment can easily be installed in this room along with all the conventional pieces of modern kitchen equipment. The back door provides easy access to the back porch and yard.

Prevention of Open Seams Between Boards

Paint is only one means of assisting in the preservation of exposed wood parts of the house.

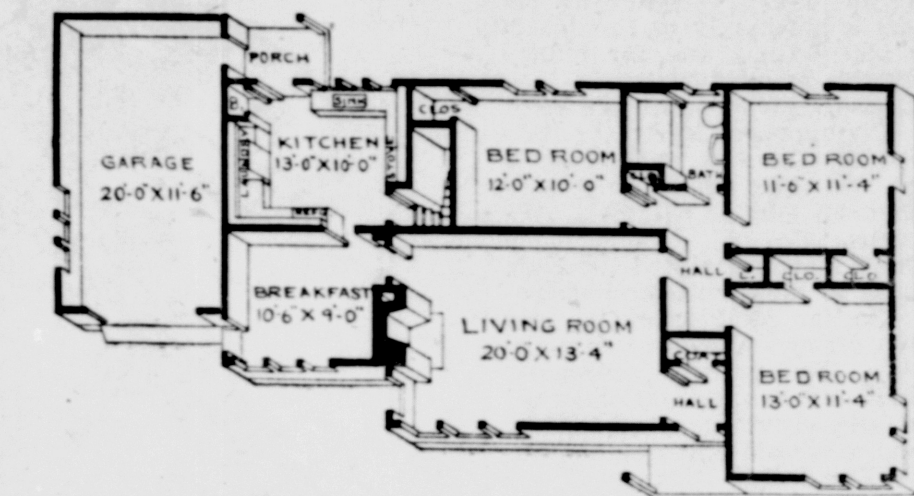

The prevention of open seams between boards and at mitered corners is even more important. Dry wood does not rot. Very seldom is a piece of exterior woodwork found which is rotted from the surface in. In general, deterioration progresses from hidden places — at first unseen, but gradually working toward the surface. In nine cases out of 10 such deterioration is caused by moisture — moisture which has entered through a tiny opening of seam.

Paint alone will not prevent this action. Open joints and mitered corners permit the entry of water which promotes fungus growth.

No woodwork of any kind should be painted without carefully checking first all corners, seams, laps, and butt ends of boards. A quarter-pound of putty used at the right time is often more important than several gallons of paint.

Deterioration of woodwork is like the trickle which, gradually enlarging itself, can destroy a dyke. One drop of water may set the process in motion. Eliminate that drop, and the woodwork will stay sound generation after generation.

Nearly half of the coal produced in the United States in 1951 was mechanically cleaned.

Long-Forgotten Attic Is Put to Good Use

You're missing a wonderful bet if your attic is just the usual overhead junk heap.

In an article in Esquire, "Three Attics for Fun," architectural editor Jule R. von Sternberg offers three suggestions for converting the long-forgotten attics of America into attractive and functional living space.

His first idea is to turn the attic into a rooftop theatre where on a small stage, you can put on family productions or show home movies.

Or, if you have several young boys in the family, turn the unused upper-story into a big, full-floor bed-and-bath room. Cabinets, beds, desks, can be built in, leaving no more serious furnishing problem than a few chairs and some light fixtures.

Or, why not turn the attic into a penthouse club room, where the whole family can relax with a TV set, radio-phonograph, bar, or whatever else you care to include? Included in the article are suggestions for making ungenial attics more livable. For instance, to lighten a wide but too low attic, raise the middle section of the roof on new side walls. Widen a too narrow attic with a strip dormer window extending full length of the new room.

Colonial Charm

A charming Early American dining room has walls painted a deep, dull blue, a beamed ceiling and random-width planks for the floor. A pine trestle-table is placed beneath a wide window which overlooks a garden. Pewter plates and tankards gleam on the shelves of a Welsh cupboard. Draperies are russet in tone. The russet hue is repeated in the hand-hooked rugs on the floor.

YOUR VOTE WILL MATTER

With all indications pointing to the possibility of a record vote in the coming presidential election, no one should feel that his vote won't matter.

Your one vote, your right to vote in secret and have your vote counted stands between you and slavery. Men and women in three quarters of the world do not have the right to vote in secret for whomever they please and to have their votes counted.

Your privilege of voting is one of your most valuable rights. Don't neglect it.

Approximately 47 million threw away their right to vote in the 1948 presidential election. Only 51 per cent of the 95 million people in the United States of voting age went to the polls and cast their votes.

It was a pretty sad record, especially when compared to the voting box score in other countries where free elections are held. That same year in Italy 89 per cent of those eligible voted. Last year in England it was 83 per cent. There are others of recent years—Canada 75, Belgium 90, Sweden 80.

The percentage of people who said what difference will my one vote make accounted for a large share of the 47 million adult citizens who gave up their right to vote in 1948.

Allow this trend to continue, allow indifference, apathy and laziness to stand in the way of going to the voting booth and you will be allowing the minority to rule.

This, history has shown, is the road to loss of all liberty.

Yes, your vote will count. See to it that you cast your ballot on November 4.

NATIONAL C.Y.O. WEEK

In observance of National Catholic Youth Organization Week, October 19 to 26, special events will be held throughout Ulster county. The occasion is set aside to focus the attention of the nation on the need for sound youth programs.

This undertaking has enlisted Catholic youth organizations that serve some 200,000 American young people of all races, colors and creeds in the New York Archdiocese. Throughout the nation, C.Y.O. serves six million boys and girls. They participate in programs that are not only recreational and social, but informally educational and spiritual, as well.

In Ulster county, these young people will celebrate the week with an assembly and service at St. Peter's Church Sunday at 3 p. m.; a dance for high school students at St. Mary's School auditorium on Wednesday evening and a cross-country race at the Kingston Municipal Stadium on Sunday, October 26.

There is something about a crackling blaze in the fireplace in the winter time that gives one new vitality. And it is sorely needed after gathering a supply of wood before the winter hits.

Last January a House committee reported that one dollar out of every five we spend for military construction in France goes to the French government in taxes. The French seem to want our help and our dollars too.

The Russian government does not hate Americans, according to the new envoy to Washington, George N. Zarubin. (It merely hopes we choke.)

EARLY MAIL

While Christmas is still a long way off post office officials throughout the country have warned that packages for servicemen in far off places must be mailed early if they are to reach their destinations by Christmas. It would be well for those intending to mail such packages to check with postal regulations as to size, weight and method of packaging as well as mailing deadlines.

The Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force make special attempts to get Christmas mail and packages to the servicemen on time. A Christmas away from home is a lonely time at best but packages from home help to make the holiday brighter. To make certain that the packages arrive on time it is necessary to mail them very early. THE WEST VIRGINIA WRANGLE

Senator Harley Martin Kilgore of West Virginia made his own record as one who has shown an unusually kindly attitude toward Soviet Russia and American Communists during his career in the United States Senate. The choice of friends, associates and causes was his to make.

However, in 1952, when he is a candidate for re-election, that record does not look so good, particularly in print. William Bradford Huie, editor of the "American Mercury" magazine, wrote an article setting forth Senator Kilgore's record. The tone and character of the article may be judged from this paragraph:

"The 12-year Senate record of the Honorable Harley Martin Kilgore is untarnished by any display of independence: he has remained faithful to the party line; he is the favorite senator of the Daily Worker; he looks unblushingly to the Stalin worshippers both for instructions and for money with which to purchase his re-election."

This article, in full, was reprinted in three West Virginia newspapers. His opponent is former Senator Chapman Revercomb who has a formidable anti-Communist record. So their campaign is over the question of Communism and of Kilgore's attitude toward the Russians.

"The Charleston Daily Mail" reprinted the Huie article and Kilgore chose to file a suit for libel because of a headline. So far as I know, he has taken no action against anyone else, including the originator of the article. But when a newspaper in a comparatively small city has a $2,000,000 libel suit filed against it, it faces either a catastrophe or a joke. A year ago the aforesaid Kilgore sued another newspaper, the Charleston "Gazette," for $1,000,000, but has permitted it to lie dormant. The idea apparently is to scare the newspapers of West Virginia from publishing data from Kilgore's record.

Meanwhile, his opponent, Chapman Revercomb, challenged Kilgore to debate Huie's charges. Revercomb said:

"Let Kilgore come out on the stump and debate these charges before the people of West Virginia, as I have challenged him to do. Let him answer these charges, if he can, as I have repeatedly dared him to do."

Back in the days of the United Front, when American public officials ate caviar and drank vodka in the Russian Embassy and had themselves photographed under the portrait of Joe Stalin, the trio of Claude Pepper of Florida, Glen Taylor of Idaho, and Harley Kilgore of West Virginia were the prominent supporters of what some of us regarded as the Russian line. It would be stupid to call these men Communists or even fellow travelers. The worst that can be said about them is that they were political opportunists who thought that there were advantages on the extreme left.

Taylor got himself deeply entangled in the Progressive Party, ran for Vice President in 1948 with Henry Wallace, destroyed his political career and is now a forgotten man. Claude Pepper was accepted generally as a brilliant mind who outsmarted himself. He was defeated for re-nomination. Kilgore is running this year and may follow his colleagues into limbo.

In 1945, which is long after any intelligent man should have known that Soviet Russia was not the ally of this country but its enemy, Senator Kilgore spoke at a meeting in honor of M. M. Gusev, chairman of Amtorg, the Soviet trading company in this country which also pursued espionage as a sideline. Kilgore said:

"We must lend the Soviet Union every possible financial assistance to accelerate her reconstruction, not only as a matter of justice and sympathy, but also in order to help develop our commercial relations for the benefit of both our people. Fortunately for the world as a whole all the great powers are ardently devoted to safeguarding the peace. . . . No reasonable man can doubt that the deepest aspiration of the Soviet Union is lasting peace."

"The Charleston Daily Mail," in reply to this, quotes J. Edgar Hoover on the subject of Amtorg: "Ever since we recognized Russia in 1933, Moscow's spies have been at work. At first they penetrated factories and laboratories in order to grab our most advanced manufacturing processes. For this purpose, the Amtorg trading corporation, established here to promote trade with the Soviet Union, provided excellent cover. Amtorg officials recruited undercover agents who stole formulas for petroleum products, lacquers, textiles, and industrial chemicals."

Some Democrats think that they can squeeze one more victory out of an alliance with the pinkies. They ought to lose because Russia is our avowed enemy. (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

ACUTE AND CHRONIC APPENDICITIS

Health writers, in a desire to enlighten their readers about common ailments and their management until the doctor arrives, may sometimes give the reader needless worry or, on the other hand, fail to mention a dangerous sign or symptom.

When a child has a pain in the abdomen, it may be due to a simple irritation of the lower bowel (colon) and diarrhoea occurs, showing that Nature is providing extra water to wash the irritant out of the system. Pain might also be due to a spasm of the lower bowel, causing a temporary delay and constipation.

As the first thought about pain in the abdomen is that it might be appendicitis, Dr. Louis R. Slatery (New York University), in the New York Journal of Medicine, states that early diagnosis in acute appendicitis is relatively easy when abdominal pain starts in the region of stomach and goes down to the lower right side of abdomen and remains there. It is always wise to call the doctor immediately as actually less than 1 in 100 die if an acute appendix is removed within 24 to 36 hours.

I have written several times of what is known as the Philadelphia experiment in which deaths from appendicitis reached almost zero, if operation occurred in the first 36 hours and patient was not given food or a purgative.

In appendicitis the pain starts about the middle of abdomen, then goes down to the right side and remains there, with tenderness to the touch, pain is if finger is placed in rectum, and the abdomen region is tight to touch.

Sometimes the parents and even the physician have seen the signs of appendicitis appear and pass away so the question arises as to what should be done in these cases of chronic appendicitis.

In the Medical Journal of Australia, Dr. E. S. Stuckey, of Sydney, states that when pain in abdomen occurs from time to time and yet the pain is not exactly like or typical of appendicitis, it may often be cured by removal of appendix. Thus pain in middle part of abdomen, sometimes on right side, with loss of appetite, nausea and vomiting, listlessness and disturbed sleep points to appendicitis. Sometimes thread worms infesting the appendix are the cause of the pain and removal of appendix gives relief.

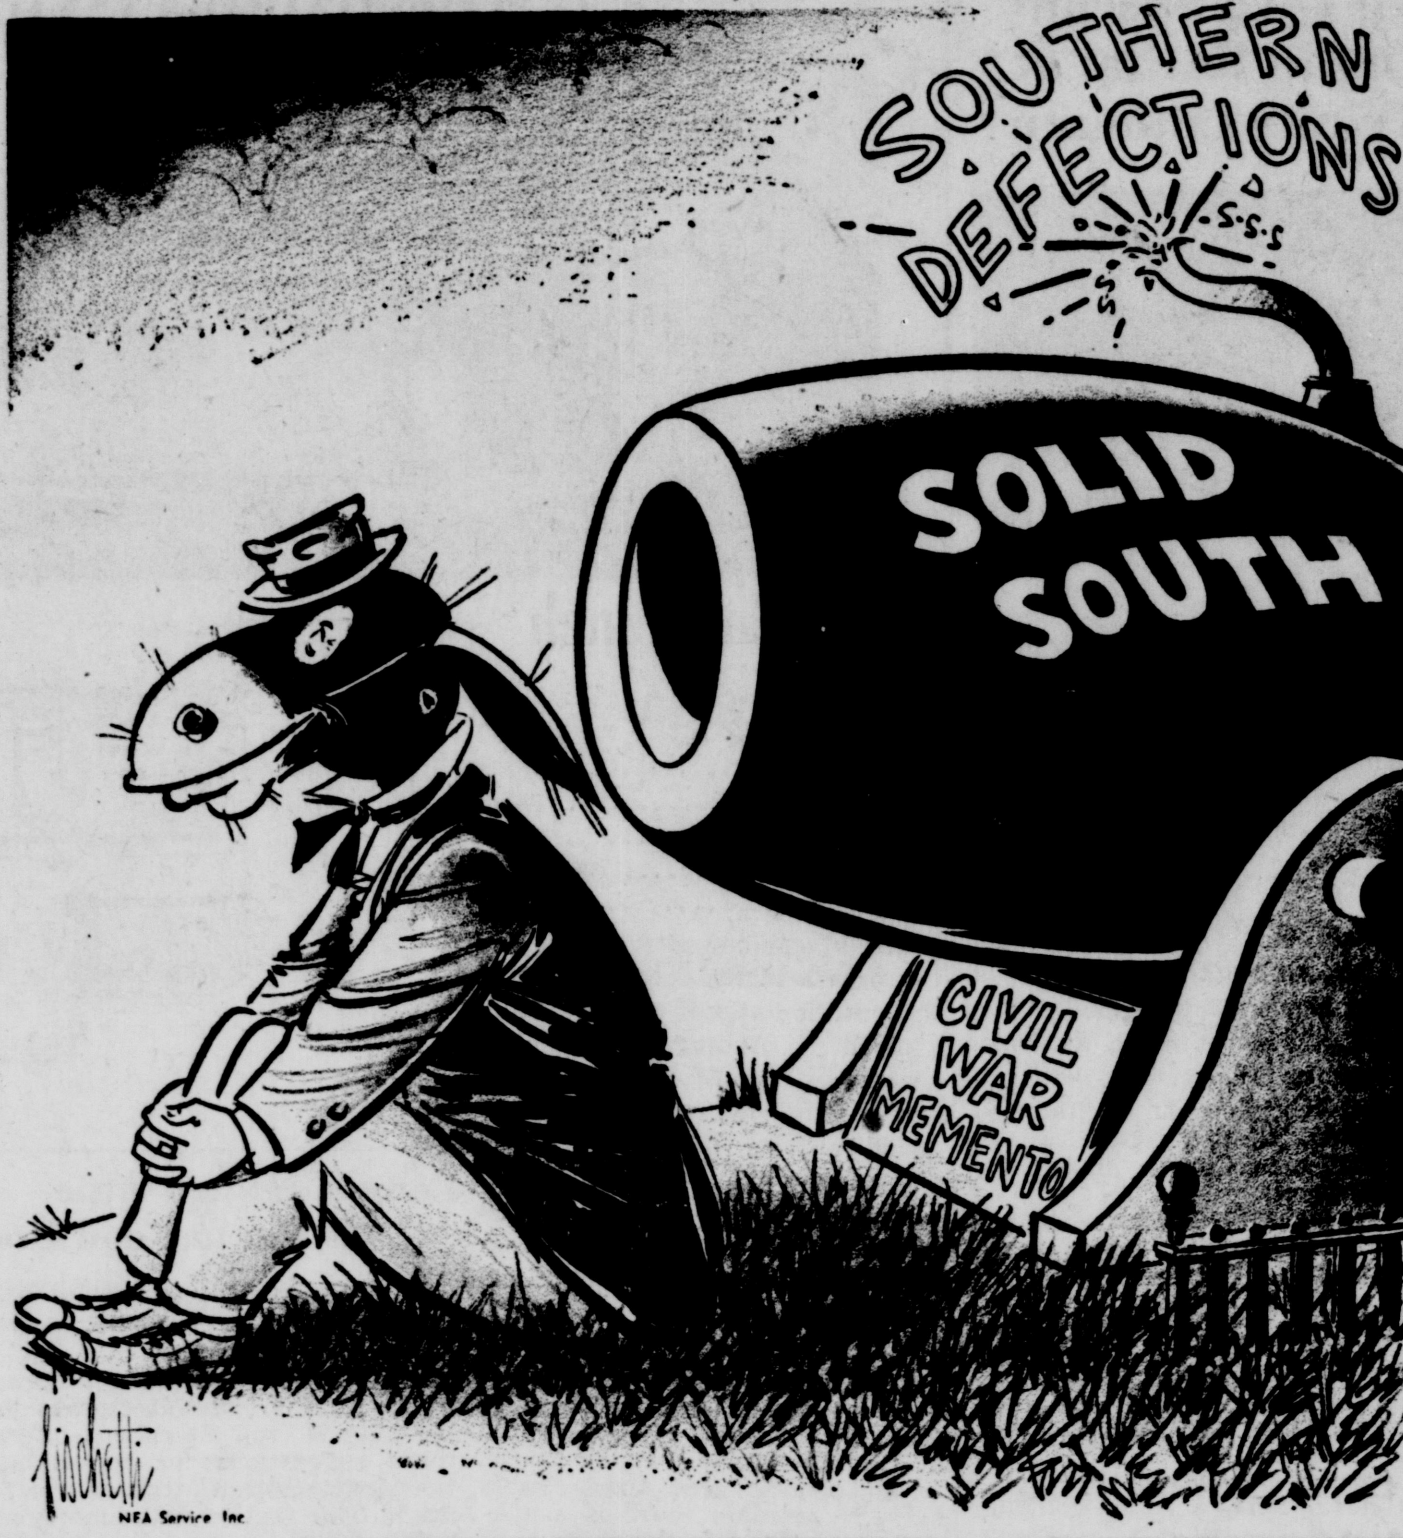

While most physicians and surgeons do not favor removal of appendix in chronic appendicitis, so-called, all favor the early removal in the acute attack of appendicitis because delay greatly increases the danger to life.

His Favorite Spot for Years

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—A small eruption took place aboard the Eisenhower train recently over a Boston banker.

He is Brig. Gen. Robert Cutler, president of the Old Colony Trust Co., friend of Senator Cabot Lodge, and put aboard the train as personal aide to Ike and a sort of ambassador for Lodge, who was Ike's first campaign manager.

Because Cutler's duties were undefined, and because he is an energetic gentleman, Cutler soon rose to be a top member of the Eisenhower brain trust. He branched out into speech-writing, sat in on policy sessions, issued pronouncements.

But one morning at 4 o'clock, he routed the speech-writing crew out of their berths, told them they would have to get to work on the next speech, though actually it wasn't due until the next evening.

This was too much. The speech-writers had only just got to bed. They rebelled. Cutler insisted. Finally they told him where to get off, went back to bed.

Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, top man in the Eisenhower camp, backed them up. Adams is a small, pleasant person, usually mild-mannered. But when he sticks out his jaw, his face looks like New Hampshire granite.

Adams has now demoted Gen. Cutler. He is seen a lot, less often heard.

Inside Korea

Getting behind the day-to-day headlines, here is a summary of the Korean fighting, based on secret Pentagon reports:

The Chinese launched 55 probing attacks against our line in one day last week, then put on the pressure at the weakest point. This happened to be in the Chorwon Valley, where an American division was moving out and a South Korean division moving in. The South Koreans hadn't yet dug in, so the line gave way.

However, the Communist attack failed to penetrate what the army calls its MRL (main resistance line), but pounded a dent in the OPR (operations resistance line). In other words, our main defense positions are solidly intact.

Meanwhile, the Chinese have wheeled up an impressive array of field artillery and even front-line anti-aircraft guns. Last week, the Chinese lobbed 200,000 rounds of artillery across the line and for the first time threw flak at our planes up front.

But there are still no signs of a big push—no speed-up of supplies, no massing of reserve troops. The press has reported that the Chinese have moved 16,000 reserves into the battle area. This is not the case. The Chinese have simply been juggling two front-line divisions, not bringing in reserves from the rear.

The Pentagon appraisal is that the Chinese are deliberately bleeding UN troops, knowing our regard for human life. The Chinese also may be trying to straighten out the battle line in order to improve their bargaining position at the conference table, in case truce talks are resumed.

Adlai's Hostess

The lady who would be hostess to bachelor Adlai Stevenson, if elected, his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Ives, got off some recent comments on politics recently before the North Carolina Democratic Club of Washington, D. C.

"The family didn't realize that Adlai was a good story teller until he left home," she quipped. "He never got a chance to talk at home."

Telling how her brother rejected a campaign proposal to make a special radio broadcast to women voters, she continued:

"Adlai reasoned that it would be equally silly to slant a broadcast to barbers, storekeepers, bus drivers, or other vocational groups. No speeches should be written especially for women. They are interested equally with men in better working conditions, prices, schools, public welfare, public health, public housing, rural electrification, homes, peace, and other issues."

"Campaigning with Stevenson," she said, "was easy. They tell you where to go, what to do, what to eat, and whom to speak to, but they don't tell you what to say."

Mrs. Stanley Wohl, the presiding officer, later asked Mrs. Ives if she would become hostess to her brother if he were elected. The reply:

"Will I become the White House hostess? Just let Adlai ask me!"

Diplomatic Pouch

Two Bridgemoons Foreign Minister Anthony Eden promised Marshal Tito during his recent visit to Belgrade that the entire British fleet in the Mediterranean would rush to Yugoslavia's aid in case Russia attacks. Tito in turn told Eden that Yugoslavia now has 26 first-class army divisions and will fight to the death to resist Russia. Tito and Eden got along so well during their conferences that they ran out of problems to discuss and began talking about their new brides.

Atomic Artillery—The army's new 8-ton atomic cannon can travel over highways at 40 miles per hour, shoot more than 20 miles and is so large that the crews in the front and rear talk to each other by radio. The army finally cut five feet off the barrel and was delighted to find that the guns fired more accurately.

Flying Saucers—A semi-scientific group in Los Angeles, called "civilian saucers investigators," has concluded that flying saucers might be space ships from another planet. This group has reported to the air force that several sightings during the last 60 days reveal characteristics that could be expected from space ships. At the outbreak of the flying saucer epidemic, "civilian saucers investigators" worked closely with the air force, but now have severed all connections.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Two Ways Open To Make Contract

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South spent many anxious moments in the play of the hand shown today wondering whether or not the club finesse would succeed. When the king of clubs finally showed up where he hoped it would be, South was so overjoyed that he managed to lose his game contract.

West opened a diamond, and dummy won with the ace. Declarer now tried out the trumps, discovering that West had a sure trump trick. When West took the queen of spades he returned a diamond, and South ruffed.

The game now depended upon the clubs, and South hopefully led a low club towards dummy.

West naturally played the king of clubs, and South exultantly won the trick with dummy's ace. This was a sad mistake. East could not be prevented from winning a club trick with his jack, whereupon a heart return gave West two heart tricks to defeat the contract.

South should not have been in such a hurry to win the first club trick with dummy's ace. No matter how it went against the grain, he should have allowed West to hold the first round of clubs with the king. Now it would be impossible for East to gain the lead, and South could run the rest of the clubs without loss. If West then failed to attack the hearts, South would discard a heart on dummy's extra club; and if West led hearts, South's king would win a trick. Either way South would surely make his contract.

Teachers at Convention

The teachers of Kingston attended the 107th anniversary of the South Eastern Zone Convention Friday held at Manhattan Center in New York. Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, and Paul Witty, author and psychologist, were principal speakers. Dr. Harvey M. Rice, president of the State University Teachers College and president of the State Teachers Association extended greetings to the teachers. The afternoon program consisted of a number of meetings arranged to meet the interest of teachers on all levels. The annual zone business meeting will be held today in the ballroom of the Hotel New Yorker.

67 Prospect Street
Kingston, N. Y.
Oct. 15, 1952

Editor, The Freeman:
May I strongly second from the feminine viewpoint the case so well presented by Mr. Higby in your issue of Wednesday, Oct. 15.

In my opinion, there is no surer way of making everyone miserable than adopting the defeatist attitude that is so easy to acquire in these trying days of "everything happens for the worst in the worst of all possible worlds." Please excuse the misquotation.

I love Kingston. I like the people here. I strongly advocate the principles upon which this particular community was established.

Let's everyone try to forget his or her own little ego and try to give something to this community of which we should be very proud to be individual citizens.

We're a clean town. We're a beautiful town. We have a wonderful historical heritage.

Can't we all in our own particular way, according to our individual beliefs, thank God that we are still allowed our rights and privileges as citizens of a free nation.

Let's forget about our own picaresque trouble and try to give the other fellow a lift. A cheerful smile, a kind word, a neighborly deed will help make the load lighter for our fellow travelers along the way.

Sincerely yours,

The Ashley Welding, Machine and Iron Company, Inc., is beginning work on a direct navy contract to manufacture ramp gates for landing boats, it was announced today by Charles H. Ashley, president.

The work will be done at the firm's Sawkill plant. The contract calls for the production of 21 of the gates, each weighing about eight tons, to be used on landing boats made by Island Dock, Inc.

Unusual Offer Made By Kirkman Detergent

Housewives in the Ulster county area will have the opportunity to take advantage of a most unusual offer being made by Kirkman all-purpose detergent in big space advertisements in The Freeman. Unlike most promotions of its kind, this offer involves no expense on the part of the buyer beyond the purchase price of three packages of the new detergent. A pair of 7-inch hollow-ground, magnetic point household shears with a verified retail value of 79 cents is offered free to anyone sending in three premium coupons clipped from the back of Kirkman detergent packages. Kirkman even pays the shipping costs! The willingness of the advertiser to make an offer of this kind can be understood in the light of the enthusiastic acceptance of new Kirkman detergent by housewives who have tried it. Introduced only this year, it is already the favorite washday product of thousands.

MJM Parents' Night

The Myron J. Michael Junior High School will conduct its first Parents' Night of the year Tuesday, Oct. 21 at 8 p. m. All parents and friends of the school are invited. The program will include the showing of a school movie and the election of the executive committee of the MJM Education Association. Following the program there will be an open house during which parents may tour the building and meet teachers.

YOUR VOTE WILL MATTER

With all indications pointing to the possibility of a record vote in the coming presidential election, no one should feel that his vote won't matter.

Your one, your right to vote in secret and have your vote counted stands between you and slavery. Men and women in three quarters of the world do not have the right to vote in secret for whom they please and to have their votes counted.

Your privilege of voting is one of your most valuable rights. Don't neglect it.

Approximately 47 million threw away their right to vote in the 1948 presidential election. Only 51 per cent of the 95 million people in the United States of voting age went to the polls and cast their votes.

It was a pretty sad record, especially when compared to the voting box score in other countries where free elections are held. That same year in Italy 89 per cent of those eligible voted. Last year in England it was 83 per cent. There are others of recent years—Canada 75, Belgium 90, Sweden 80.

The percentage of people who said what difference will my one vote make accounted for a large share of the 47 million adult citizens who gave up their right to vote in 1948.

Allow this trend to continue, allow indifference, apathy and laziness to stand in the way of going to the voting booth and you will be allowing the minority to rule.

This, history has shown, is the road to loss of all liberty.

Yes, your vote will count. See to it that you cast your ballot on November 4.

NATIONAL C.Y.O. WEEK

In observance of National Catholic Youth Organization Week, October 19 to 26, special events will be held throughout Ulster county. The occasion is set aside to focus the attention of the nation on the need for sound youth programs.

This undertaking has enlisted Catholic youth organizations that serve some 200,000 American young people of all races, colors and creeds in the New York Archdiocese. Throughout the nation, C.Y.O. serves six million boys and girls. They participate in programs that are not only recreational and social, but informally educational and spiritual, as well.

In Ulster county, these young people will celebrate the week with an assembly and service at St. Peter's Church Sunday at 3 p. m., a dance for high school students at St. Mary's School auditorium on Wednesday evening and a cross-country race at the Kingston Municipal Stadium on Sunday, October 26.

There is something about a crackling blaze in the fireplace in the winter time that gives one new vitality. And it is sorely needed after gathering a supply of wood before the winter hits.

Last January a House committee reported that one dollar out of every five we spend for military construction in France goes to the French government in taxes. The French seem to want our help and our dollars too.

The Russian government does not hate Americans, according to the new envoy to Washington, George N. Zarubin. (It merely hopes we choke.)

EARLY MAIL

While Christmas is still a long way off post office officials throughout the country have warned that packages for servicemen in far off places must be mailed early if they are to reach their destinations by Christmas. It would be well for those intending to mail such packages to check with postal regulations as to size, weight and method of packaging as well as mailing deadlines.

The Army, Navy, Marines and Air Force make special attempts to get Christmas mail and packages to the servicemen on time. A Christmas away from home is a lonely time at best but packages from home help to make the holiday brighter. To make certain that the packages arrive on time it is necessary to mail them very early. THE WEST VIRGINIA WRANGLE

Senator Harley Martin Kilgore of West Virginia made his own record as one who has shown an unusually kindly attitude toward Soviet Russia and American Communists during his career in the United States Senate. The choice of friends, associates and causes was his to make.

However, in 1952, when he is a candidate for re-election, that record does not look so good, particularly in print. William Bradford Huie, editor of the "American Mercury" magazine, wrote an article setting forth Senator Kilgore's record. The tone and character of the article may be judged from this paragraph:

"The 12-year Senate record of the Honorable Harley Martin Kilgore is untarnished by any display of independence; he has remained faithful to the party line; he is the favorite senator of the Daily Worker; he looks unblushingly to the Stalin worshippers both for instructions and for money with which to purchase his re-election."

This article, in full, was reprinted in three West Virginia newspapers. His opponent is former Senator Chapman Revercomb who has a formidable anti-Communist record. So their campaign is over the question of Communism and of Kilgore's attitude toward the Russians.

"The Charleston Daily Mail" reprinted the Huie article and Kilgore chose to file a suit for libel because of a headline. So far as I know, he has taken no action against anyone else, including the originator of the article. But when a newspaper in a comparatively small city has a $2,000,000 libel suit filed against it, it faces either a catastrophe or a joke. A year ago the aforesaid Kilgore sued another newspaper, the "Charleston Gazette," for $1,000,000, but has permitted it to go dormant. The idea apparently is to scare the newspapers of West Virginia from publishing data from Kilgore's record.

Meanwhile, his opponent, Chapman Revercomb, challenged Kilgore to debate Huie's charges. Revercomb said:

"Let Kilgore come out on the stump and debate these charges before the people of West Virginia, as I have challenged him to do. Let him answer these charges, if he can, as I have repeatedly dared him to do."

Back in the days of the United Front, when American public officials ate caviar and drank vodka in the Russian Embassy and had themselves photographed under the portrait of Joe Stalin, the trio of Claude Pepper of Florida, Glen Taylor of Idaho, and Harley Kilgore of West Virginia were the prominent supporters of what some of us regarded as the Russian line. It would be stupid to call these men Communists or even fellow travelers. The worst that can be said about them is that they were political opportunists who thought that there were advantages on the extreme left.

Taylor got himself deeply entangled in the Progressive Party, ran for Vice President in 1948 with Henry Wallace, destroyed his political career and is now a forgotten man. Claude Pepper was accepted generally as a brilliant mind who outsmarted himself. He was defeated for re-nomination. Kilgore is running this year and may follow his colleagues into limbo.

In 1945, which is long after any intelligent man should have known that Soviet Russia was not the ally of this country but its enemy, Senator Kilgore spoke at a meeting in honor of M. M. Goussiev, chairman of Amtorg, the Soviet trading company in this country which also pursued espionage as a sideline. Kilgore said:

"We must lend the Soviet Union every possible financial assistance to accelerate her reconstruction, not only as a matter of justice and sympathy, but also in order to help develop our commercial relations for the benefit of both our people. Fortunately for the world as a whole all the great powers are ardently devoted to safeguarding the peace. . . . No reasonable man can doubt that the deepest aspiration of the Soviet Union is lasting peace."

"The Charleston Daily Mail," in reply to this, quoted J. Edgar Hoover on the subject of Amtorg: "Ever since we recognized Russia in 1933, Moscow's spies have been at work. At first they penetrated factories and laboratories, in order to grab our most advanced manufacturing processes. For this purpose, the Amtorg trading corporation, established here to promote trade with the Soviet Union, provided excellent cover. Amtorg officials recruited undercover agents who stole formulas for petroleum products, lacquers, textiles, and industrial chemicals."

Some Democrats think that they can squeeze one more victory out of an alliance with the pinkies. They ought to lose because Russia is our avowed enemy.

That Body of Yours

ACUTE AND CHRONIC APPENDICITIS

Health writers, in a desire to enlighten their readers about common ailments and their management until the doctor arrives, may sometimes give the reader needless worry or, on the other hand, fail to mention a dangerous sign or symptom.

When a child has a pain in the abdomen, it may be due to a simple irritation of the liver, bowel (colon) and diaphragm occurs, showing that Nature is providing extra water to wash the irritant out of bowel. Pain might also be due to a spasm of the lower bowel, causing a temporary delay and constipation.

As the first thought about pain in the abdomen is that it might be appendicitis, Dr. Louis R. Slatery (New York University), in the New York Journal of Medicine, states that early diagnosis in acute appendicitis is relatively easy when abdominal pain starts in the region of stomach and goes down to the lower right side of abdomen and remains there. It is always wise to call the doctor immediately as actually less than 1 in 100 die if an acute appendix is removed within 24 to 36 hours.

I have written several times of what is known as the Philadelphia experiment in which deaths from appendicitis reached almost zero, if operation occurred in the first 26 hours and patient was not given food or a purgative.

In appendicitis the pain starts about the middle of abdomen, then goes down to the right side and remains there, with tenderness to the touch, pain is if finger is placed in rectum, and the abdomen region is tight or tense.

Sometimes the parents and even the physician have seen the signs of appendicitis appear and pass away so the question arises as to what should be done in these cases of chronic appendicitis.

In the Medical Journal of Australia, Dr. E. S. Stuckey, of Sydney, states that when pain in abdomen occurs from time to time and yet the pain is not exactly like or typical of appendicitis, it may often be cured by removal of appendix. Thus pain in middle part of abdomen, sometimes on right side, with loss of appetite, nausea and vomiting, listlessness and disturbed sleep points to appendicitis. Sometimes thread worms infesting the appendix are the cause of the pain and removal of appendix gives relief.

While most physicians and surgeons do not favor removal of appendix in chronic appendicitis, so-called, all favor the early removal in the acute attack of appendicitis because delay greatly increases the danger to life.

His Favorite Spot for Years

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—A small eruption took place aboard the Eisenhower train recently over a Boston banker.

He is Brig. Gen. Robert Cutler, president of the Old Colony Trust Co., friend of Senator Cabot Lodge, and put aboard the train as personal aide to Ike and a sort of ambassador for Lodge, who was Ike's first campaign manager.

Because Cutler's duties were undefined, and because he is an energetic gentleman, Cutler soon rose to be a top member of the Eisenhower brain trust. He branched out into speech-writing, sat in on policy sessions, issued pronouncements.

But one morning at 4 o'clock, he routed the speech-writing crew out of their berths, told them they would have to get to work on the next speech, though actually it wasn't due until the next evening.

This was too much. The speechwriters had only just got to bed. They rebelled. Cutler insisted. Finally they told him where to get off, went back to bed.

Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, top man in the Eisenhower camp, backed them up. Adams is a small, pleasant person, usually mild-mannered. But when he sticks out his jaw, his face looks like New Hampshire granite.

Adams has now demoted Gen. Cutler. He is seen a lot, less often heard.

Inside Korea

Getting behind the day-to-day headlines, here is a summary of the Korean fighting, based on secret Pentagon reports:

The Chinese launched 53 probing attacks against our line in one day last week, then put on the pressure at the weakest point. This happened to be in the Chonwon Valley, where an American division was moving out and a South Korean division moving in. The South Koreans hadn't yet dug in, so the line gave way.

However, the Communist attack failed to penetrate what the army calls it MRL (main resistance line), but pounded a dent in the OPRL (operations resistance line). In other words, our main defense positions are solidly intact.

Meanwhile, the Chinese have wheeled up an impressive array of field artillery and even front-line anti-aircraft guns. Last week, the Chinese lobbed 200,000 rounds of artillery across the line and for the first time threw flak at our planes up front.

But there are still no signs of a big push—no speed-up of supplies, no massing of reserve troops. The press has reported that the Chinese have moved 16,000 reserves into the battle area. This is not the case. The Chinese have simply been juggling two front-line divisions, not bringing in reserves from the rear.

The Pentagon appraisal is that the Chinese are deliberately bleeding UN troops, knowing our regard for human life. The Chinese also may be trying to straighten out the battle line in order to improve their bargaining position at the conference table, in case truce talks are resumed.

Adlai's Hostess

The lady who would be hostess to bachelor Adlai Stevenson, if elected, his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth, got off some cogent comments on politics recently before the North Carolina Democratic Club of Washington, D. C.

"The family didn't realize that Adlai was a good story teller until he left home," she quipped. "He never got a chance to talk at home."

Telling how her brother rejected a campaign proposal to make a special radio broadcast to women voters, she continued:

"Adlai reasoned that it would be equally silly to slant a broadcast to barbers, storekeepers, bus drivers, or other vocational groups. No speeches should be written especially for women. They are interested equally with men in better working conditions, prices, schools, public welfare, public health, public housing, rural electrification, homes, peace, and other issues."

"Campaigning with Stevenson," she said, "was easy. They tell you where to go, what to do, what to say, and whom to speak to, but they don't tell you what to say."

Mrs. Stanley Wohl, the presiding officer, later asked Mrs. Ives if she would become hostess to her brother if he were elected. The reply:

"Will I become the White House hostess? Just let Adlai ask me!"

Diplomatic Pouch

Two Bridgrooms—Foreign Minister Anthony Eden promised Marshal Tito during his recent visit to Belgrade that the entire British fleet in the Mediterranean would rush to Yugoslavia's aid in case Russia attacks. Tito in turn told Eden that Yugoslavia now has 26 first-class army divisions and will fight to the death to resist Russia. Tito and Eden got along so well during their conference that they ran out of problems to discuss and began talking about their new brides.

Atomic Artillery—The army's new 85-ton atomic cannon can travel over highways at 40 miles per hour, shoot more than 20 miles and is so large that the crews in the front and rear talk to each other by radio. The army finally cut five feet off the barrel and was delighted to find that the guns fired more accurately.

Capital News Capsules

Flying Saucers—A semi-scientific group in Los Angeles, called "civilian saucers investigators," has concluded that flying saucers might be space ships from another planet. This group has reported so well during their conferences during the last 60 days reveal characteristics that could be expected from space ships. At the outbreak of the flying saucer epidemic, "civilian saucers investigators" worked closely with the air force, but now have severed all connections.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Two Ways Open To Make Contract

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

South spent many anxious moments in the play of the hand shown today wondering whether or not the club finesse would succeed. When the king of clubs finally showed up where he hoped it would be, South was so overjoyed that he managed to lose his game contract.

West opened a diamond, and dummy won with the ace. Declarer now tried out the trumps, discovering that West had a sure trump trick. When West took the queen of spades he returned a diamond, and South ruffed.

The game now depended upon the clubs, and South hopefully a low club towards dummy. West naturally played the king of clubs, and South exultantly won the trick with dummy's ace. This was a sad mistake. East could not be prevented from winning a club trick with his jack, whereupon a heart return gave West two heart tricks to defeat the contract.

South should not have been in such a hurry to win the first club trick with dummy's ace. No matter how it went against the grain, he should have allowed West to hold the first round of clubs with the king. Now it would be impossible for East to gain the lead, and South could run the rest of the clubs without loss.

If West then failed to attack the hearts, South would discard a heart on dummy's extra club; and if West led hearts, South's king would win a trick. Either way South would surely make his contract.

Home Town Booster

67 Prospect Street
Kingston, N. Y.
Oct. 15, 1952

Editor, The Freeman:
May I strongly second from the feminine viewpoint the case so well presented by Mr. Higby in your issue of Wednesday, Oct. 15.

In my opinion, there is no surer way of making everyone miserable than adopting the defeatist attitude that is so easy to acquire in these trying days of "everything happens for the worst in the worst of all possible worlds." Please excuse the misquotation.

I love Kingston. I like the people here. I strongly advocate the principles upon which this particular community was established. Let's everyone try to forget his or her own little ego and try to give something to this community of which we should be very proud to be individual citizens.

We're a clean town. We're a beautiful town. We have a wonderful historical heritage.

Can't we all in our own particular way, according to our individual beliefs, thank God that we are still allowed our rights and privileges as citizens of a free nation.

Let's forget about our own peccancy trouble and try to give the other fellow a lift. A cheerful smile, a kind word, a neighborly deed will help make the load lighter for our fellow travelers along the way.

Sincerely yours,
NELLIE L. HOLBROOK

Tillson Woman Feted On Her 89th Birthday

Mrs. John E. Hardenbergh of Tillson celebrated her 89th birthday Monday at a party in Ireland Corners Hotel at Ireland Corners. A group of Tillson friends and Mr. and Mrs. Kloeve and Mrs. Helgeson of Ireland Corners were in attendance.

Dr. Malil Aran Bey of Istanbul, Turkey, and Dr. Mohammed Ali Lahr Pasha, of Alexandria, Egypt, antiquarians as well as physicians, also congratulated Mrs. Hardenbergh during a visit with her daughter, Sara Rose Hardenbergh. Miss Hardenbergh at one time was a member of a team with Mrs. Bey and Pasha, doing special research on the ancient art of mummification and tomb structure in the tombs of the Kings, particularly Tut-Ankh-Amen's, in the Valley of the Kings, on the west bank of the Nile, at Luxor, Egypt.

Saugerties Plans Project for Fathers

When parents and friends of District 16, School Association, Saugerties, held the first meeting of the school year, fathers of the children planned to meet at the schoolhouse Thursday at 6:30 p. m., to rearrange desks and make minor repairs.

Refreshments will be served by the mothers to those assisting with the project.

Officers elected include Mrs. Henri Rethier, president; Mrs. Clara Borchardt, vice-president; Mrs. Gus Lievre, secretary; and Mrs. George Wodischeck, treasurer.

The organization will hold regular meetings on the first Tuesday of each month, except for November, when the meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 5, at 7:30 p. m. All residents in the district are invited to join.

Mrs. Auley Roosa, 216 Elmendorf street, this city, a teacher at the school, explained the program for the year and submitted the school calendar for discussion and questions.

In conjunction with the opening of the campaign, associate and patron members attended the presentation of three one-act plays. In the cast for Elizabeth's Young Man, directed by Marie Costello, were Joan White, Claire Russo, Barbara Ross and Roy Wulff. Roles in Submerged, directed by Howard Honig, were portrayed by Howard Honig, Stanley London, Dennis Brady, John Cordis, Dick Becker and Ed Guziak. Overtones, was the third play, directed by Jean Jones. The cast included Jean Jones, Virginia Bagshaw, Rose Helen Mellert and Eve Wulff.

Irving Rose, president, expressed appreciation for the support which has been given to the group, and told the large audience that the players have stressed comedy because of public demand. "We will welcome suggestions as to what the public would like to see," he said.

Three major productions have been scheduled for presentation at the George Washington School auditorium during the 1952-53 season, in the months of November, February and May, the first offering will be Gramercy Ghost, a popular comedy. (Freeman photo).

Lake Katrine Grange

The meeting of the Lake Katrine Grange Oct. 6, was well attended and the program enjoyed. Carl Wille, master, presided.

The proceedings had a nostalgic air, as 25-year members were presented with silver certificates by Roger Loughran, who was one of the charter members of the Grange. His remarks were timely, interesting and amusing. Mrs. Harry Carle and Ralph Hommel were among the recipients of the certificates. Several others who were entitled to them, were unable to be present. Minutes of the meetings held in October and November 1927 were read and enjoyed.

The dart ball team activities were reported by Dan Morehouse. Many of the new members are looking forward to participating in this recreation.

Installation of officers will be held at Ashbury Grange Monday, Nov. 10, with Lake Katrine Grange and Mt. Tremper Grange having combined ceremonies.

The new lecturer will be Matilda Markers. The next meeting of the Grange will be held Monday, Oct. 20, with the present officers presiding.

Not If You're a Negro Living in Kingston!

Segregation, discrimination and second class citizenship is the deliberate policy to deny full equality of rights to 16,000,000 Negro Americans. This policy sanctions violence and murder against Negroes because they are Negroes; this policy shortens the average life span of the Negro to eight years less than the white man.

An aroused and determined Negro people properly insist upon their protection, on their full status as American citizens, and on full representation in the political life of the nation.

In vigorous uncompromising support of these aims and steps toward stamping out every form of discrimination against the Negro people, and all minorities, the AMERICAN LABOR PARTY calls for:

Can YOU live in a home of your own choosing? Can YOU work in a trade or profession of your desire? Can YOU travel freely by any means of transportation?

Can YOU be a nurse in one of Kingston's Hospitals? Can YOU feel free to walk into any barbershop or beauty parlor in Kingston?

Not If You Are a Negro!

Not If You're a Negro Living in Kingston!

Segregation, discrimination and second class citizenship is the deliberate policy to deny full equality of rights to 16,000,000 Negro Americans. This policy sanctions violence and murder against Negroes because they are Negroes; this policy shortens the average life span of the Negro to eight years less than the white man.

An aroused and determined Negro people properly insist upon their protection, on their full status as American citizens, and on full representation in the political life of the nation.

In vigorous uncompromising support of these aims and steps toward stamping out every form of discrimination against the Negro people, and all minorities, the AMERICAN LABOR PARTY calls for:

(1) A Federal Fair Employment Practices Law, with effective enforcement power.

(2) A Federal Anti-Lynch Law.

(3) Effective laws barring discrimination and segregation in housing.

O'Dwyer's "Notes"

(Bennett Cert in This Week)

Ralph Ingersoll recalls that when Bill O'Dwyer first ran for public office in Brooklyn, he made it a practice to appear on a platform holding a piece of paper. After a quick look at his audience, however, he would crumple the paper into a ball and throw it in the corner, remarking heartily, "I can see I'm among true friends this evening. I don't need notes to speak to this kind of an audience."

Ingersoll once retrieved one of O'Dwyer's discarded "pages of notes." It was an old laundry bill.

We still are puzzled to understand how some of those girls are able to hang on to the rear of motorcycles, for they seem to be defying all the laws of gravity—but they stay put.

Judy—I saw you in a restaurant yesterday with that awful Smith girl. You were both eating oysters. What can you have in common with that horrible female?

Rudy—Indigestion.

Picking a mother-in-law is often very important.

You can't choose your ancestors, but that's fair enough. They probably wouldn't have chosen you.

There can be no such thing as a necessary evil. If a thing is really necessary it cannot be an evil, and if it is an evil it is not necessary.

Waiter—Yes, sir. With or without pearls?

Giants and 49ers Face Powerful Opposition in Key NFL Contests

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—The New York Giants and San Francisco 49ers, prospecting many years for professional football gold and glory place their spotless records and championship hopes on the line tomorrow in a five-game National Football League program.

Coach Steve Owen's Giants, seeking their first crown since 1938, take on the dangerous Chicago Cardinals in the feature game.

The 49ers, who never have won a divisional title, clash with the Bears in Chicago in the big game of the National Conference. Both the Giants and 49ers boast 3-0 records and triumphs tomorrow will greatly enhance their chances of meeting for the league championship on Dec. 21.

Other games tomorrow find Cleveland at Philadelphia, Los Angeles at Detroit and Washington at Pittsburgh. Green Bay and Dallas meet in the Texas City tonight.

The Giants, fresh from last Sunday's 17-9 triumph over Cleveland's perennial champion Browns, may be a bit down for their home opener against the Cards. The Cards, tied with Cleveland and Philadelphia for second place, boast an upset triumph over the Bears and figure to give the Giants a hard time. The Giants rule a touchdown favorite to win.

San Francisco also is in for no easy time at Chicago. The second place Bears, who haven't won all the marbles since 1946, can tie the hungry 49ers for the lead by winning. The invaders are favorite to prevail by a touchdown.

The Browns, still smarting from their beating at the hands of the Giants, hope to remain in the running by knocking off the Eagles in Philadelphia. A Cleveland victory and Giant defeat would enable the Browns to tie their arch rivals for the top rung once again.

Los Angeles' defending champion Rams also must win at Detroit in order to keep alive their dreams of repeating. The Rams won their first game in three starts last week. The Lions, figured to be a league standout this season, are the favorites. Both teams have 1-2 records.

The Washington-Pittsburgh games in the Smoky City looms as a battle to avoid last place in the American Conference. The Redskins have won one and lost two while the home town Steelers have dropped three straight.

Miron Lumber HVBL Lead Now 2 Games; Wally Gerken Tops Averages With 204

Tourney of Champions

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Joe Marra, the surprise winner of the Metropolitan Amateur golf championship this year, and Joe Gagliardi, runner-up for the 1951 National Amateur championship, top a big field of golfers who will start play Monday in the first Metropolitan Tournament of Champions. The new event, sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune, is open to the champions of every club in the Metropolitan district, including public courses. With more than 150 eligible champions, a field of about 100 is expected at the Westchester Country Club.

Leading the Hudson Valley Bowling League pack by two games over the Poughkeepsie Veterans Cabs, Miron Lumber of Kingston travels to Walden tonight to meet the resurgent Merchants (8-7).

Two other local squads will be at home, Rapp's Express (8-7) against Middletown Bennetts (6-9), while Elstons Sports (7-8) entertains the second-place Poughkeepsie Veterans Cabs (12-3).

Individual and team records remained unchanged last week with Wally Gerken of Newburgh holding the individual marks of 259 and 684. Miron Lumber's 1095 and 3054 are tops in those departments.

Gerken, the Hill City all-time HVBL great, is off to a great start and shows a 204 average for the first 15 games of the schedule. Johnny Ferraro, of Kingston, trails with 200.4. Larry Peterson, Jr., the ex-gob, is down for 197 for three sets and Harold Broskie boasts 196.4 for 15 games. The 187½ pound, 6-2 Bucceroni, a 2-1 choice over his 211 pound foe, floored his husky rival for nine with a right to the jaw in the second and piled up a huge lead.

He missed often, however, as he kept shooting for a knockout, and the farmer's boy from Washington's Puyallup Valley pulled up close with his jabs and short combinations.

Both judges, Arthur Aida and Jack O'Sullivan scored the fight even in rounds, 4-4-2, but gave the nod to Bucceroni on points. Aida's points were 7-5 while O'Sullivan had it 6-4. Referee Al Berle had Bucceroni the winner on rounds, 5-4-1. The AP scorecard agreed with the referee's.

Under New York rules, a knockdown counts heavily and that was the difference. It was Bucceroni's 38th win against three defeats. The loss snapped a four-year, 16-fight win streak for the 6-2½ Davey. His record now is 22-2.

Coasted, He Said
"I was sure I was way ahead and just coasted at the end of the fight. That kid is a great prospect. He's a good defensive fighter and very game."

Elizabeth Schoonmaker Hits 233 and 603; Emil Boessneck Socks 628 in No-Can-Do

One of the bright stars of the modern crop and an old timer who spans era between the origin of local league bowling and present day bowling highlighted last night's tenpin activity in Kingston.

Mary Elizabeth Schoonmaker, president of the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association and generally rated the No. 2 keglerette in the town, rolled a 603 series and a new high single mark of 233 in the Women's Classic at the Bowlodrome.

Emil Boessneck, a tenpin titan nearly three decades ago, pounded a 628, with 221, 216 and 181 in the No-Can-Do League for the best male score. For the ex-City League star it was one of his best nights in some time.

Miss Schoonmaker fashioned her series with 170, 200 and the big 233. Trailing in the second slot with a respectable 538 and 202 solo was Mrs. Tess Moss. Elizabeth Bruck hammered 517, Dot Fleming 503 and Rose Schatzel 500.

Also in the top bracket were Mrs. W. A. 494, Betty Port 485, Phyl Gehring 490, Betty Bailey 489, and Charlotte Lapine 485.

Pieper Socks 569
Trailing Boessneck in the No-Can-Do loop were Bill Pieper with 212-543. Other good pinfall was 569; Tony Van Gonsic 567; Jack Parslow 220-546. W. Ferguson (205) and Stan Colvin powered 545 each and Joe Nagy topped 512-543. Other good pinfall was turned in by Herbie Kessman 538; J. Fatum 221-537; Don Ashdown 219-536; Percy Slover 537; Sterley 214-525; Ray Otto 517; Ralph Frederick 208-515; Sam Turley 514 and H. Ferguson 512.

John "Red" Sangi, Central Rec proprietor, showed the Everybody League boys how with 225-193-610. Sal Catelli, the concert violinist, pounded 200-208-586; Fred Schryver (210) and Allen Hoey each topped 556; Ed Lindhurst 544; John Schatzel 202-541; Joe Heidcamp, Jr., 233-539; Bob Sickler 511; Harry Wood 212-504; Tom Welch 503 and Jack Houghtaling 500.

Short Tops Electrol
Bill Short led the Electrol regular circuit with 232-156-171-559 and Tony La Rocca hit 549. Other top scorers included G. Craig 533, M. Kemlage 531, H. Ellsworth 515, M. Weil 514, Joe Bartsch 203-513; George Castor and H. Smith (201)—508 and H. Winchell 501. But Burr near-missed with 497.

Three bowlers waged a close battle for high series honors in the Classic League, with Chris Robinson's 617, via 184-207-216, stealing the thunder from Leroy Webber and Jim Benicase. Webber pounded 225-203-603 and Benicase had 223-600.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Registration Shows Increase Over 1951

New Paltz, Oct. 17—Registration in New Paltz shows an increase over last year. The total for district 1 this year is 1,101, for district 2 it is 1,127. The total for this year is 2,247. Last year the registration in district 1 was 1,029. Last year's registration for district 2 was not available.

Due to activity to get out the vote election officials reported that some voters, eligible previously, registered for the first time this year. New voters who have just reached their 21st birthday accounted for some of the increase and newcomers to the community accounted for the remainder. Ray Morris is head of the election board in district 1 and John Dodd in district 2.

League of Women Voters Has Meeting

New Paltz, Oct. 17—How well do you know local politics? Speakers at the open meeting held by the LWV recently stressed the importance of voters getting to know local representatives of their party. The committeemen are the people who represent you in county and state meetings and through them you make your opinions heard, it was pointed out.

The Republican committeemen for election district 1 are B. H. Matteson and Henry DuBois. In election district 2, they are Jay Le Fevre and David Corwin. There are no village Democratic committeemen as far as could be ascertained. Thomas J. Plunkett of Kingston is Democratic party leader for the county.

Garden Clubs to Hold Convention Oct. 20-21

New Paltz, Oct. 17—Mrs. Andrew L. F. Deyo, new president of the Garden Club, has announced that The State Federation of Garden Clubs will hold a convention at Lake Minnewaska Oct. 20 and 21. The meeting will open at noon Monday and continue through Tuesday afternoon. Any member of a Garden Club may attend. Reservations for the New Paltz Club include Mrs. Carleton Vandewater, Mrs. O. I. Harding, Mrs. Hoyt of Walden and Miss Helena Olds.

The New Paltz Garden Club includes members from Walden, West Park, Walkkill and Port Jervis. The Ulster County Club will have charge of decorations for the conference.

Now that the road work has been completed on Upper Main street, Mrs. Deyo said that the garden club will be glad to supply property owners with seed for ground myrtle to plant between the curb and sidewalk.

Five Laymen Conduct Services October 19

New Paltz, Oct. 17—In conjunction with the observance of country-wide Layman's Sunday, Oct. 19, the morning service at the Reformed Church will be conducted by five laymen. The theme of the service will be "The Church in the World."

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Registration Shows Increase Over 1951

New Paltz, Oct. 17—Registration in New Paltz shows an increase over last year. The total for district 1 this year is 1,101, for district 2 it is 1,127. The total for this year is 2,228. Last year the registration in district 1 was 1,029. Last year's registration for district 2 was not available.

Due to activity to get out the vote election officials reported that some voters, eligible previously, registered for the first time this year. New voters who have just reached their 21st birthday accounted for some of the increase and newcomers to the community accounted for the remainder. Ray Morris is head of the election board in district 1 and John Dodd in district 2.

Voters Has Meeting

New Paltz, Oct. 17—How well do you know local politics? Speakers at the open meeting held by the LWV recently stressed the importance of voters getting to know local representatives of their party. The committee members are the people who represent you in county and state meetings and through them you make your opinions heard. It was pointed out. The Republican committee members for election district 1 are B. H. Matteson and Henry DuBois. In election district 2, they are Jay Le Fevre and David Cowin. There are no village Democratic committee members as far as could be ascertained. Thomas J. Plunkett of Kingston is Democratic party leader for the county.

Garden Clubs to Hold Convention Oct. 20-21

New Paltz, Oct. 17—Mrs. Andrew L. F. Deyo, new president of the Garden Club, has announced that The State Federation of Garden Clubs will hold a convention at Lake Minnewaska Oct. 20 and 21. The meeting will open at noon Monday and continue through Tuesday afternoon. Any member of a Garden Club may attend. Reservations for the New Paltz Club include Mrs. Carleton Vandewater, Mrs. O. I. Harding, Mrs. Hoyt of Walden and Miss Helena Oids.

The New Paltz Garden Club includes members from Walden, West Park, Wallkill and Port Ewen. The Ulster County Club will have charge of decorations for the conference.

Now that the road work has been completed on Upper Main street, Mrs. Deyo said that the garden club will be glad to supply property owners with seed for ground myrtle to plant between the curb and side walk.

Giants and 49ers Face Powerful Opposition in Key NFL Contests

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—The New York Giants and San Francisco 49ers, prospecting many years for professional football gold and glory place their spotless records and championship hopes on the line tomorrow in a five-game National Football League program.

Coach Steve Owen's Giants, seeking their first crown since 1938, take on the dangerous Chicago Cardinals in the feature game in the American Conference. The 49ers, who never have won a divisional title, clash with the Bears in Chicago in the big game of the National Conference. Both the Giants and 49ers boast 3-0 records and triumphs tomorrow will greatly enhance their chances of meeting for the league championship on Dec. 21.

Other games tomorrow find Cleveland at Philadelphia, Los Angeles at Detroit and Washington at Pittsburgh. Green Bay and Dallas meet in the Texas City tonight.

The Giants, fresh from last Sunday's 17-9 triumph over Cleveland's perennial champion Browns, may be a bit down for their home opener against the Cards. The Cards, tied with Cleveland and Philadelphia for second place, boast an upset triumph over the Bears and figure to give the Giants a hard time. The Giants rule a touchdown favorite to win.

Bears Tough

San Francisco also is in for no easy time at Chicago. The second place Bears, who haven't won all the marbles since 1946, can tie the hungry 49ers for the lead by winning. The invaders are favorite to prevail by a touchdown.

The Browns, still smarting from their beating at the hands of the Giants, hope to remain in the running by knocking off the Eagles in Philadelphia. A Cleveland victory and Giant defeat would enable the Browns to tie their arch rivals for the top rung once again.

Los Angeles' defending champion Rams also must win at Detroit in order to keep alive their dreams of repeating. The Rams won their first game in three starts last week. The Lions, figured to be a league standout this season, are the favorites. Both teams have 1-2 records.

The Washington-Pittsburgh games in the Smoky City looms as a battle to avoid last place in the American Conference. The Redskins have won one and lost two while the home town Steelers have dropped three straight.

Elizabeth Schoonmaker Hits 233 and 603; Emil Boessneck Socks 628 in No-Can-Do

One of the bright stars of the modern crop and an old timer who spans era between the origin of local league bowling and present day bowling highlighted last night's tenpin activity in Kingston.

Mary Elizabeth Schoonmaker, president of the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association and generally rated the No. 2 keglerette in the town, rolled a 603 series and a new high single mark of 233 in the Women's Classic at the Bowldrome.

Emil Boessneck, a tenpin titan nearly three decades ago, pounded a 628, with 221, 216 and 181 in the No-Can-Do League for the best male score. For the ex-city League star it was one of his best nights in some time.

Miron Lumber HVBL Lead Now 2 Games; Wally Gerken Tops Averages With 204

Tourney of Champions

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Joe Marra, the surprise winner of the Metropolitan Amateur golf championship this year, and Joe Gagliardi, runner-up for the 1951 National Amateur championship, top a big field of golfers who will start play Monday in the first Metropolitan Tournament of Champions.

The new event, sponsored by the New York Herald Tribune, is open to the champions of every club in the Metropolitan district, including public courses. With more than 150 eligible champions, a field of about 100 is expected at the Westchester Country Club.

Individual and team records remained unchanged last week with Wally Gerken of Newburgh holding the individual marks of 259 and 684. Miron Lumber's 1065 and 3054 are tops in those departments.

Gerken, the Hill City all-time HVBL great, is off to a great start and shows a 204 average for the first 15 games of the schedule. Johnny Ferraro, of Kingston, trails with 200.4. Larry Peterson, Jr., the ex-gob, is down for 197 for three sets and Harold Broskie boasts 196.4 for 15 games. Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer is in the 190-plus bracket with 191.9 for 15 games.

Bucceroni Scores Squeaker Over Davey; Gets December Date Against Rex Layne

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Hard-hitting Danny Bucceroni was offered a Garden bout with Rex Layne today following his narrow squeak over husky Dave Davey.

The lanky Philadelphia heavyweight, making his first start after a five-month layoff, beat the 22-year Tacoma, Wash., lad on the strength of a nine-count knockdown in the second round of their ten rounder at St. Nicholas Arena last night.

Bucceroni acted like he had beaten a contender instead of a rookie.

"Sure I'll take Layne," he said after Matchmaker Billy Brown offered him a December bout with the Rocky Mountain contender. "I'd like to get Rocky Marciano or anybody else."

"I never thought the fight was as close as the officials had it," Bucceroni added.

Coated, He Said
"I was sure I was way ahead and just coasted at the end of the fight. That kid is a great prospect. He's a good defensive fighter and very game."

The 187½ pound, 6-2 Bucceroni, a 2-1 choice over his 211 pound foe, floored his husky rival for nine with a right to the jaw in the second and piled up a huge lead.

He missed often, however, as he kept shooting for a knockout, and the farmer's boy from Washington's Puyallup Valley pulled up close with his jabs and short combinations.

Both judges, Arthur Aidala and Jack O'Sullivan scored the fight even in rounds 4-4-2 but gave the nod to Bucceroni on points. Aidala's points were 7-5 while O'Sullivan had it 6-4. Referee Al Berle had Bucceroni the winner on rounds 5-4-1. The AP scorecard agreed with the referee's.

Under New York rules, a knockdown counts heavily and that was the difference. It was Bucceroni's 38th win against three defeats. The loss snapped a four-year, 16-fight win streak for the 6-2½ Davey. His record now is 22-2.

Instead, he sent a clipping, dated Oct. 15, 1935, Kingston Daily Freeman, which noted that Jack Lowther of the Saugerties club notched his second individual trapshoot title with a perfect score of 50 targets.

This information alters somewhat the announcement after the 1952 competition won by Fred Thiel of Milton. Thiel, a great shooter, broke 50 targets but it was the third and not the second time the feat had been accomplished.

First came Lowther in 1935, then John J. Van Gonsic, the Tillson bus tycoon, and now Thiel. In the year of Lowther's second coronation, Van Gonsic didn't even place among the individuals and compiled a scratch score of 44. He was a two-handicap shooter then, his threshold of career that was to establish him as one of Ulster county's all-time shooting great

Election Posters Urging Voting Are Available Locally

Posters asking all eligible voters to vote on Election Day, Tuesday, Nov. 4, are available at the office of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. All organizations are invited to help distribute them.

The Chamber committee, which prepared the posters and asks for volunteers to help distribute them, consists of Chester A. Baltz, Jr., chairman; Clarence H. Buddenhagen and Henry Singer. The three service clubs Lions, Rotary and Kiwanis helped distribute the registration posters and also will be asked to help distribute the Election Day posters at their regular meetings next week.

The preparation and distribution of the election posters is part of the Chamber program to get more citizens to take an active part in all civic affairs. They believe every eligible voter should exercise his or her right and privilege to vote on Election Day and also enroll in the party of their choice to enable them to take part in party primaries.

Conference Is Planned

On Oct. 30, the Chamber is sponsoring a regional legislative conference in cooperation with the Empire State Chamber of Commerce. This also is part of the broad program and will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, preceded by a dinner. All members are invited to attend. Reservations may be made at the Chamber office.

The Chamber believes that the nation is as strong as the communities and other political subdivisions of our country and that more citizens to take an active part in the policies and laws passed by our state and federal government as well as the local government. They also believe that the important issues should be thoroughly discussed to enable more people to make intelligent decisions on them.

The election poster now being distributed reminds all eligible voters that they own a share of voting stock in our country and that they should visit the polling place in their election district between 6 a. m. and 7 p. m. on Nov. 4, and exercise their right and privilege. They ask everyone to vote to help reach the goal of 52,366 for Ulster county. The poster also serves as a reminder that Oct. 25 is the last day to appear for absentee ballots at the Board of Elections office at 74 John street.

New Saratoga

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—The navy's second super aircraft carrier will be named the "Saratoga," the navy announced yesterday. The keel of the 60,000-ton ship will be laid in December at the New York Naval Shipyard. The vessel is scheduled for completion in 1955. The new Saratoga will be the sixth navy vessel to carry the name. The first fought in the Revolutionary War. The last "Sara," of World War 2 fame, was sunk deliberately in the 1946 Bikini atom bomb tests.

Hat Still Missing

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—That gold-braid-and-lightning hat "borrowed" from Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, at Detroit last August has not yet been returned—despite the general's well-publicized assurance that no questions would be asked.

The $50 hat—the only one of its kind, because of its distinctive insignia—was missing after Vandenberg addressed a luncheon meeting of air force officers and veterans of the Air Force Association convention.

New Saratoga

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—The navy's second super aircraft carrier will be named the "Saratoga," the navy announced yesterday. The keel of the 60,000-ton ship will be laid in December at the New York Naval Shipyard. The vessel is scheduled for completion in 1955. The new Saratoga will be the sixth navy vessel to carry the name. The first fought in the Revolutionary War. The last "Sara," of World War 2 fame, was sunk deliberately in the 1946 Bikini atom bomb tests.

Hat Still Missing

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—That gold-braid-and-lightning hat "borrowed" from Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, at Detroit last August has not yet been returned—despite the general's well-publicized assurance that no questions would be asked. The $50 hat—the only one of its kind, because of its distinctive insignia—was missing after Vandenberg addressed a luncheon meeting of air force officers and veterans of the Air Force Association convention.

Snatches Pay Roll

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—A youth held up a clothing manufacturer in a Brooklyn building yesterday and escaped with $9,000. Richard Farah, 50, of (414 Park avenue) Manhasset, N. Y., was returning from a bank with the money to meet his pay roll at M. Farah and Sons, makers of women's housecoats. Farah described the man as about 20 years old and six feet tall.

Donald Waterman, 10, of 61 German street, was reported in "fair" condition today at the Kingston Hospital, where he is under treatment for a broken left thigh.

The boy's physician said he was told the youngster suffered the injury when he fell from a wagon, drawn by a tractor, on a farm along Route 28, yesterday afternoon.

Companions reported that young Waterman lost his balance and landed beneath the vehicle, the rear wheel passing over his thigh. Three Boy Scouts, members of Troop 12, who were on the farm at the time, called the ambulance and treated young Waterman for shock, according to Scoutmaster Ralph Shapiro of 19 Joy's Lane. Shapiro said he had been informed the boys, Fred Burnett, John Bonestell and Dennis Stewart, advised others not to move the injured lad, applying knowledge they had acquired in Scouting.

Young Waterman resides with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jamieson.

Good Weather Continues

A fairly pleasant fall day was the outlook for most of the country today, says the Associated Press. There was no rain over the entire country early today, but showers were forecast for parts of northern New England, California and southern Florida. Cool weather continued over most of the Midwest with some warming in prospect over the weekend. It was 23 above early today in Rockford and it was a sub-freezing 30 in Chicago. Temperatures were near seasonal levels in the rest of the country.

Judge Clips 'Barbers'

Billings, Mont. (P)—A young man who had asked three friends to cut his hair claimed in court he was butchered instead of barbered. Gilbros Casandio said the three left him looking like a Mohawk Indian with only a tuft on top. The judge clipped the "barbers" for $40.

U. S. Troops . . .

days of the fighting on Sniper Ridge.

Up to Friday night, the Chinese had lost an estimated 3,750 soldiers on Triangle Hill.

A U. S. Eighth Army staff officer said South Korean troops sealed off entrances of Red caves on Sniper Hill big enough to hold 150 men. "They were well-constructed and concealed with as many as four entrances," he said. "The Communists went into the caves to escape air strikes and artillery fire. They were strong enough to withstand 500-pound bombs."

The air force said eight UN warplanes were lost over North Korea during the week ended Friday.

Communist MIG jets shot down one U. S. Sabre jet and one propeller-driven Mustang of the South African Air Force. Red planes were knocked down four planes. Two more failed to return for unexplained reasons.

Allied pilots during the week shot down 10 MIG jets, probably destroyed one and damaged two of the Russian-type fighters.

Intensity of the air campaign against the Reds was shown by the air force announcement that it mounted 7,720 individual flights during the seven days ending Friday, the highest weekly total of the war. The previous high, set last May was 7,490.

Communist artillery and mortar fire across the 155-mile front amounted to 23,493 rounds between 6 p. m. Thursday and 6 p. m. Friday—double the intensity of the previous 24 hours.

Fighting continued at Iron Horse Mountain at the western end of Iron Triangle, and at Finger Ridge, west of the Pukhan river.

Contact Is Broken

By 8 a. m. Saturday the Chinese on Iron Horse Mountain had broken contact with the troops of the ROK Ninth Division, but the Reds were still near the crest of the hill. ROKs held the south slope. The Chinese kept up their assaults on Finger Ridge, near the eastern end of the central front. Red forces of up to 200 men made several attacks against the UN troops holding Finger Ridge. All were driven off.

Groups of up to 150 Reds tried in vain to dent western front allied lines between Panmunjom and northwest of Yonchon last night and early today.

Cites Truman on Negroes

At the same time, the Republican candidate declared that President Truman, who he said "claims to be the only true friend our Negro citizens have," voted as a senator in 1942 against "lifting the poll tax restriction even for members in the armed services then fighting for this country in the war."

Accused the Democratic National Administration of exploiting minority groups through promises rather than performance. Promised to call a meeting of the 48 governors, if elected president, to push a program of fair employment practices.

Called for a rewriting of the McCarran Immigration Law to improve the hopes of "the unhappy and oppressed."

corporate charters had been obtained by temporary organizations before the political groups qualified as legal parties by obtaining the more than 50,000 required votes in a gubernatorial election.

The department stressed that organizations listed properly on the list might be reinstated, retroactive to the date of dissolution, by filing of a certificate of annulment of the dissolution, a certificate of reinstatement and a report of corporate existence by Oct. 14, 1953. The filing fee is $5.

No immediate steps are planned to halt operations of groups on the list.

Truman Blasts

fight the Red Chinese hordes alone.

(In a speech at Champaign, Ill., Eisenhower said: "The South Korean battle line today should be manned primarily by South Koreans. We must intensify programs of training the 20 million South Koreans or those that are necessary to hold their own front lines, and so far as the United Nations and America have to stay in that area, to get them back into reserves and at least eliminate the losses.")

"That sounded like a promise, and he meant it to sound that way. It sounded like something he would do right away. But it was just an empty campaign speech to get votes."

"I know what his words sounded like to mothers and fathers of this country. They sounded like words of hope, of relief and comfort from worry and heartache."

Cruel Words, He Says

"That's what made them so cruel. The Republican candidate for president held out a false hope to the mothers of America, in an effort to pick up a few votes. That was a contemptible thing to do."

"It was irresponsible, because the Republican candidate knows that we can not pull our American troops out of Korea now. We can't do it unless we are willing to say to Stalin 'We quit—you win.'"

Truman said that Eisenhower knows the South Koreans "can not stand up against the entire Red Chinese army."

"He knows better—and when he talks about pulling out of Korea, he is deliberately playing partisan politics with something that ought to be above partisan politics," the President continued.

Truman again assailed the McCarran Act, particularly for its retention in the immigration laws of the national origins quota system which he said discriminates against Italians, Poles, Greeks and others from eastern and southern Europe.

"If you think that law ought to be changed and made fair and just, you'd better vote Democratic," he said.

Appeals to Workers

Truman said a Democratic vote was a vote for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act "which is penalizing every textile worker in New England."

Truman described Stevenson as "one of the ablest men ever nominated" for the presidency.

The people "had a great surprise the day after the 1948 election," the President said.

"Now, I will tell you something about what is going to happen this year, we're going to win another victory for the Democratic party and for the American people on November 4."

His "give 'em Hell" campaign trail today led through Brockton, Taunton, Fall River, Mass., and into Providence, R. I., and to six new talks in Connecticut. Then his 16-car special train moves into New York for a major speech in Brooklyn at 9 p. m. (EST) and two other talks in Manhattan.

That winds up this tour, but another three-day swing through New Jersey, Pennsylvania and parts of West Virginia and Maryland gets underway next Tuesday.

Donald Waterman, 10, of 61 German street, was reported in "fair" condition today at the Kingston Hospital, where he is under treatment for a broken left thigh.

The boy's physician said he was told the youngster suffered the injury when he fell from a wagon, drawn by a tractor, on a farm along Route 28, yesterday afternoon.

Companions reported that young Waterman lost his balance and landed beneath the vehicle, the rear wheel passing over his thigh. Three Boy Scouts, members of Troop 12, who were on the farm at the time, called the ambulance and treated young Waterman for shock, according to Scoutmaster Ralph Shapiro of 19 1/2 Lane.

Shapiro said he had been informed the boys, Fred Burnett, John Bonestell and Dennis Stewart, advised others not to move the injured lad, applying knowledge they had acquired in Scout-ing.

Young Waterman resides with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Jamieson.

Genevieve McLean is spending a few days out of town. Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Slater of Granite spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Slater's sister, Mrs. Alfred Barringer.

Registration at the close of Oct. 11, in the Third Election District of the town of Olive was 349.

Good Weather Continues

A fairly pleasant fall day was the outlook for most of the country today, says the Associated Press. There was no rain over the entire country early today, but showers were forecast for parts of northern New England, California and southern Florida.

Cool weather continued over most of the midwest with some warming in prospect over the weekend. It was 23 above early today in Rockford and it was a sub-freezing 30 in Chicago. Temperatures were near seasonal levels in the rest of the country.

But how much would it cost to REPLACE IT?

The average home owner today carries only 40% enough fire insurance. He's thinking backward to what his property cost, instead of forward to what it would cost to REPLACE IT.

Face the facts. Your home or place of business (and contents) may burn tonight. Is your fire insurance big enough to enable you to start to rebuild and refurnish or restock tomorrow?

Quit kidding yourself that you won't have a fire or that you are fully protected. It's no fun to be half-ruined.</
